W. H. MULLINS, an important manufacturer of Salem, Ohio, respected by the entire state as was his father, James Mullins, before him, says concerning the purchase of President Harding's Marion newspaper, that the scandalous insinuations should be more definitely contradicted. Mr. Mullins is a neighbor and close friend of L. H. Brush, one of the men who bought President Harding's paper, and is well acquainted with the details of the transactions.

THAT particular and most unnecessary scandal should be killed thoroughly. President Harding sold his newspaper to men engaged in newspaper ownership in Ohio, and he sold it for less than it was worth.

BEFORE concluding negotiations for the sale, President Harding talked to W. R. Hearst of his determination to sell. There was no secret about it. Mr. Hearst himself might have bought the newspaper but he does not publish newspapers in cities as small as Marion.

The President made up his mind to sell, not because he was getting a big price or even a good price. The buyers got a bargain.

He sold because he felt that when he retired from the Presidency, editing a small city newspaper would not be work in which he would care to continue.

There are plenty of disgraceful and disagreeable details in that oil scheme, without dragging in the dead President, or the gentlemen that purchased his newspaper at a fair, close price, when they learned he wished to sell.

WHAT SHOULD interest the people just now is a rumor that powerful interests in Washington are endeavoring to kill the entire oil scandal investigation and believe they have a fair chance of doing so. It is alleged that speculation in oil stocks, following announcement that the Sinclair Company had grabbed the naval reserves, included at least a dozen distinguished public servants, who don't want their names to come out.

THOSE THAT love dogs and others are agitated because rich Mrs. O. L. Dunn, of New Jersey, left orders to chloroform her valuable dogs when she died.

Kind hearted people want to save Wee Blackie, Lady Puff Ball and General Mite, Pomeranians worth a thousand dollars each, also two "Pom" pups and a fox terrier.

THE EXCITEMENT about these dogs is a sign of improved civilization, although you wonder why people get so much excited about dogs that will die painlessly under chloroform and so little excited about the children in Europe, dying painfully of starvation.

The excitement shows how standards change. The Asiatic chieftain, at his death, had his favorite horse slaughtered. The African chief had his wives slaughtered, "favorites" or not, because he wants them to come along and wait on him in the next world.

Now we bury with our car-

ACCUSED BY FATHER OF GIRL

Ex-Drug Sleuth Charged With Taking Maye Cookson of Needham With Him

Dr. Erwin C. Ruth, former Federal narcotic director for New England, and Maye Cookson, twenty-year-old member of Boston's "Bohemia," are sought by the Department of Justice, according to advices received today from Washington.

Ruth is charged with violation of the Mann act. A warrant for his arrest has been sworn out by Fred G. Cookson of Needham, father of the girl.

During Ruth's rule as narcotic chief he caused the filming of a picture showing the evils of dope. The picture, which was made in Boston, had several members of the Boston art colony in its cast, including Maye Cookson and Evelyn Stanfield, better known as "Tarzan."

The picture was barred by the authorities.

Ruth and one of his agents, Ralph Fry, were later arrested in Maine and tried for extorting money from Maine physicians. Ruth was acquitted but Fry is now serving eighteen months in Atlanta.

It is charged that Ruth, after the trial in Portland, induced the Cookson girl to leave home and that the two have since been traveling about the country together.

Ruth and Miss Cookson recently were arrested in Kansas City on a charge of selling drugs. While awaiting trial in $5,000 bonds Ruth fled. The girl followed later.

HUB IRISH RAPPED BY GORDON

Declares They Boycotted "Sweet Lavender" Because He Was English

If the Irish of Boston are all ready for another swatting they will please stand up and take it.

Anthony Gordon is as sore as a sunburnt neck.

It may have escaped the attention of "the Irish of Boston," but Anthony Gordon arrived here from dear old London some weeks ago with a play by Pinero and a company of actors.

The play, "Sweet Lavender," was good when Arthur Wing Pinero wrote it, thirty years ago, and it isn't bad today.

Mr. Gordon, who is said to have some connection with the gin made famous by Gungha Dhin, was received by Mayor Curley, given the key to the city, whatever that is, received several complimentary notices in the newspapers, and then settled down to business.

ALL BOUND HOME.

But there wasn't any business and after waiting, and waiting, and waiting, the London manager took dear old "Sweet Lavender" and his troupe of sixteen players to Montreal, where, it appears, business was worse. So, he "closed," and they are all homeward bound on the White Star liner Cedric.

Who is to blame for the "flop" of the enterprise in Montreal Mr. Gordon did not say, when he gave out a long interview in New York, but the thought has come to him that what Curley gave him was a key to the gate and this is what he thinks—now—about Boston, Massachusetts:

"They gave me a golden key to the city in Boston, which, I understood, meant the freedom of that municipality, but the Irish boycotted my play and we had to leave the city after a five weeks' run which should have lasted three to four months at least. I had planned to take the show, 'Sweet Lavender,' one of the finest comedies to come here from England, into New York, but after the treatment I received from the Sinn Feiners in Boston I took my troupe to Canada, and closed in Montreal last week.

"The Irish of Boston resented the fact that I was presented the free-

'HEALER' SAYS HE IS DIVINE

Back Bay "Doctor" Pretends Supernatural Power to His Many Patients

A "divine healer" who cannot quote the Bible correctly.

A "doctor" who uses faith on some patients, and a combination of osteopathy, chiropractic and jiu jitsu on others.

A perambulating psuedo-medico, who travels about the country claiming to cure almost all the ills that flesh is heir to.

Such is Angus Stewart, now in residence at the Hotel Huntington, No. 307 Huntington avenue, Boston.

With no license to practice medicine, he nevertheless passes out cards bearing the inscription: "Dr. A. Stewart"; his temporary address and office hours, which are from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 2 p. m. to 7 p. m.

LAYS ON HANDS

"Dr." Stewart told a reporter for the Boston American that he is a divine healer.

He solemnly declared that his ability to heal was derived through the power of God.

"Dr." Stewart admitted he has no license to practice medicine, but said he does not use medicine in any way.

His treatment, he stated, is "simply laying on hands and silent, earnest prayer."

Another investigator for the American however, was given a considerably harsher treatment.

Hands were laid on him by "Dr." Stewart, but so violently they nearly dislocated his spinal column. Nothing was said during this treatment about "silent, earnest prayer."

Stewart, who had told the investigator he was suffering from neuritis, asured him he would sleep well after the treatment.

"Dr." Stewart collects $3 for each treatment, faith or material, and his reception room is thronged with patients day and night.

"Don't give me any of the credit."

GOODWIN IS 'LIAR,' SAYS JUDGE

O'Donnell of Northampton Brands Registrar "Defamer" in Charge Against Courts

Springfield, Feb. 17.—Judge John B. O'Donnell of the Northampton district court has taken up the cudgels for the third of the district court judges of the State attacked by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles.

Goodwin told a legislative committee a third of the judges can be "fixed" in the matter of disposing of the cases of drunken autoists.

Judge O'Donnell says Goodwin is "a liar and a defamer."

The judge offered to meet Goodwin "at any time and at any place," but for what specific purpose he does not make clear. He insists that, in disposing of autoists charged with being drunk, there are mitigating circumstances at times, such as a man being a war veteran and a first offender.

"To such a man's plea for mercy I will never turn a deaf ear," says the judge.

DENBY OUT AS CHIEF OF NAVY

Secretary Forced to Resign Because of Position in Oil Lease Scandal

Washington, Feb. 18.—Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, announced after a conference with President Coolidge today that he would not resign as a result of the retirement of Secretary Denby.

"I have been to see the President and I am not resigning," he said.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby, central administration figure in the oil lease scandal, resigned from the Cabinet this forenoon.

After repeatedly declaring he never would quit under the fire of those who have criticised his part in the oil leasing program, the secretary notified President Coolidge that he was ready to step out.

There is nothing to indicate that President Coolidge has selected a successor to Denby. It is likely he will be urged to appoint another Michigan man to the place—perhaps Charles D. Warren, who has been offered the post of ambassador to Mexico; or former Representative Patrick H. Kelly, who served in Congress as head of the appropriation sub-committee in charge of the navy supply bills.

TOLD HE WAS IN THE WAY.

Denby's decision followed a telephone conversation with the President, in which all of the latest aspects of the situation were talked over, in the light of information passed on to the White House by Republican leaders in the Senate.

Recently a number of the Secretary's friends also have been consulted by Mr. Coolidge, and they are understood to have advised the President that they fully understood the embarrassment that might result in retaining Mr. Denby in the said Stewart to the American reporter. "God has simply given me a little stronger faith than most of the people, and he expects me to use it in helping them. It is God's power."

HUB 'HEALER' CLAIMS DIVINE POWER, BUT MISQUOTES BIBLE

WOMEN PATIENTS FLOCK TO HIS OFFICE FOR "SILENT PRAYER" TREATMENT

MISQUOTES BIBLE

He said he bases his ability on the last words of Christ before the ascension, according to St. Mark.

These words were: "They (the apostles) shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover."

Unfortunately Dr. Stewart was unable to quote the words correctly. He knew where they were to be found in the Bible, however. He also referred to another scriptural tenet: "By faith shall ye be made whole."

This, one of the best known quotations in the Bible, he was unable to give word for word.

He explained to the reporter that there is some invisible force or substance within us which makes the organs function. It gives us life and keeps us living, and once departed from the body no human being can restore it. It causes transformations which no chemist can bring about in a laboratory, he said.

When some port of the body fails to function normally, that force or substance is not sufficiently active, according to "Dr." Stewart. Faith, he added, confidence that a supreme being can and will "make him whole," sets the force into action again at a normal rate. That's all there is to it.

'CURED' PARALYSIS

"A man's creed has nothing on earth to do with the treatment," said Healer Stewart. "Catholics, Protestants, Jews and non-believers—I have cured hundreds of them of all kinds of diseases.

"I cured a four year old boy in New York of partial paralysis; one of his legs was withered, and his body was twisted out of shape. He was pretty young to know about God, wasn't he? But he is cured and here are pictures of him, before and after."

He produced two photographs, one of a crippled child and the other of a laughing, healthy boy, claiming they are the same subect.

The healer said that in diagnosis he usually places his hands on the patient's head, and begins silent prayer. He then questions the patient at intervals as to the ailment, placing one hand from time to time on the affected part of the body. Sometimes, he said, it requires twenty minutes to complete a diagnosis, during which time the silent prayer goes on.

HELPED BY SON

Treatment is similar to diagnosis, but the prayer is changed, according to Healer Stewart. Treatments last from three to thirty or forty minutes, he said.

Asked if there is anything peculiar about the prayer, he replied:

"Nothing except asking God to make the patient well again. Strong faith. My faith is strong enough to cure those who have no faith at all. We cannot cure all cases where organs are partially good; no doctor can do that. But I do not know of one case that I have not been able to help, and by far the majority of cases of all kinds, I have been able to cure."

His specialty, he said, is "old, chronic cases of any kind in which physicians have failed to give relief, especially where the patient has given up hope."

"Dr." Stewart, whose son Colin receives the patients, is a large man about fifty-five years old. He is smooth faced, has iron gray hair and smiles almost constantly.

MANY PATIENTS

He was first visited by an American investigator on Tuesday, February 12. The reception room was filled, all but one of the patients being women.

After hours of waiting, the investigator left, returning in the evening when he was eventually reached by the "doctor."

The investigator told "Dr." Stewart he felt all worn out, having no ambition, and that he had pains in his left shoulder.

Stewart said the case was chiefly neuritis, and proceeded to administer treatment. Nothing was said at this visit about faith healing or divine power.

Instead the investigator was seized in a very muscular grip, the "doctor's" left arm was placed around his neck, and the right fist against the center of the investigator's spine. Stewart then began to pull with his left arm and push with his right fist, at the same time pulling the patient's head and shoulders back. He then twisted the investigator's head to left and right so vigorously that something snapped, after which the "doctor" massaged shoulders, forehead and neck.

Stewart told the investigator he would certainly sleep well after that treatment, but if he didn't feel better to return for another treatment.

Asked what his charge was the "doctor" replied:

"They generally give me $3 around here."

cases only expensive coffins, with silver handles, squandering money on fancy tombs to put the coffins in. That's progress.

SINCE THE people haven't intelligence enough to buy what they need for themselves, using natural resources and monopolies for the purpose, it is fortunate that private individuals able to make the money devote it to public uses.

There is Mr. Rockefeller, steadily giving hundreds of millions intelligently, more money more intelligently given than ever before in all history.

NOW Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan gives the people a magnificent library building, and a far more valuable library collected by his father.

Many millions are represented in the twenty-five thousand volumes, probably the finest private collection of rare books in the world.

It will give scholars access to thousands of books that they could not see elsewhere, and facilitate the original research which alone satisfies true scholarship.

The intelligent man begins, with eager selfishness, building up his fortune for himself. His view gets broader and the fortune that he has built, as the little creatures build up the coral reef, becomes the foundation of a future and better civilization.

MR. MORGAN'S generous gift will enrich the few that go to original sources for their information.

What a hundred millions of Americans need and what somebody should provide, is a collection of books, one to five hundred, prepared so that people will actually read them and not merely own them. Every really great book, of which there are perhaps five hundred in all the world, which the average human being knows by name, but does not read, contains within itself a smaller book that every intelligent person would read.

Someone should peptonize, condense and distribute knowledge, now inaccessible to those most urgently in need of it.

DENBY FORCED TO GET OUT OF CABINET

Quits After Declaring That He Would Not Be Driven From Office

Not only is Denby a party to the oil leases, having affixed his signature along with that of Albert B. Fall, but he repeatedly has defended his part in the proceedings and has declared publicly since the present controversy arose that he believed the contracts legal and would be willing to pursue the same course again.

News of Denby's resignation spread like wildfire around the capitol and became the subject of widespread comment in the Senate. Friends of Denby deplored his retirement as "an unjust proceeding." They asserted Denby has been made "a goat" on the other hand, senators who attacked him in last week's hectic debating hailed his resignation with satisfaction.

POSITION INCONSISTENT.

It has been pointed out to the President that it might appear inconsistent to have a member of the administration holding these views remain in office while the administration itself, through its counsel, was moving in the courts to annul the leases on the ground that they were made without authority of law.

The first step in these legal proceedings, injunction suits to prevent further work on the Teapot and California reserves, is expected immediately after the Senate completes confirmation of the oil counsel, probably today.

For the same reason there have been reports that Theodore Roosevelt also would retire as assistant secretary under Mr. Denby. Mr. Roosevelt also had a part in the framing of the oil leases.

DAUGHERTY NEXT?

The retirement of the Navy Secretary also revived rumors that the resignation of Attorney-General Daugherty would follow within a few days.

A resolution relating to him, and somewhat similar to that adopted some days ago asking for the resignation of Mr. Denby, is pending in the Senate and its sponsors are pressing for quick action.

The resolution in which the President was advised to ask Secretary Denby to leave the Cabinet was adopted February 11 with the Republican organization leaders opposing it but with ten Republicans voting in its support. The vote was 47 to 34.

Immediately it was sent to the White House, Mr. Coolidge issued a statement declaring that such questions lay wholly within the province of the executive.

"JUSTICE TO ALL."

The President added:

"The President is responsible to the people for his conduct relative to the retention or dismissal of public officials. I assume that responsibility, and the people may be assured that as soon as I can be advised so that I may act with entire justice to all parties concerned and fully protect the public interests, I shall act.

"I do not propose to sacrifice any innocent man for my own welfare. Nor do I propose to retain in office any unfit man for my own welfare. I shall try to maintain the functions of the government unimpaired, to act upon the evidence and the law as I find it, and to deal thoroughly and summarily with every kind of wrongdoing."

Since then many conferences have been held by the President with other officials of his administration, Senate leaders, and personal friends of Mr. Denby. Two of those most frequently at the White House have been Secretary Weeks and Charles B. Warren of Michigan, both old personal and political friends of the Navy's Secretary.

DENBY SLIPS AWAY.

The decision in favor of resignation apparently was reached soon after Mr. Coolidge went to his office this morning, but a formal announcement was deferred.

E. T. Clark, one of Mr. Coolidge's secretaries, visited Mr. Denby's office to consult as to what form the announcement should take. Mr. Denby soon afterward left the Navy Department by a private entrance, eluding newspaper men, and left word that for the present he would have nothing to say.

Rhine Must Remain German Say 6,000 At Mass Meeting

Berlin, Feb. 18 (Universal).—Chancellor Marx and other high officials attended a mass meeting in which 6,000 citizens met to protest against the violation of the Palatinate by the Separatists with French support.

"The Rhine must remain German. Germany will never tolerate French occupation." These thoughts were the themes of all the speeches.

DENBY FORCED OUT ON 54TH BIRTHDAY

Washington, Feb. 18.—The resignation of Secretary of the Navy Denby is the first in the official family of President Coolidge, which came to him from the Harding administration. Denby lacked but three weeks of three years in the cabinet, being an original member, taking office March 4, 1921. Today is his 54th birthday.

His selection brought to the Navy Department a man who knew by personal experience the viewpoint of enlisted men, both in the navy and in the marine corps. He had served as gunner's mate aboard the converted cruiser Yosemite during the war with Spain and through all ranks and grades from private to major in the marine corps during the world war.

Denby also had a background of personal information as to the situation in China and in the Orient generally, which he drew from ten years employment in the International customs service in China when that service was directed by Sir Robert Hart. The service of Denby began during the time that his father, Charles Denby of Evansville, Ind., was American minister to Peking.

WAS FIRST A LAWYER

When he entered the Cabinet he was connected with the legal firm of Denby, Kennedy & O'Brien of Detroit and was chief probation officer of the Recorder's Court of Detroit, and of the Circuit Court of Wayne County, Michigan.

Denby began his political career when he was elected in 1903 to the Michigan House of Representatives. He was chosen to the Fifty-ninth Congress as a member of the House from Michigan and served there from 1905 to 1911. When the United States entered the World War in April, 1917, he promptly enlisted as a private in the Marine Corps and was sent to the training camp at Paris Island, S. C., where virtually all of his war service was rendered, the only expedition being a trip to France in 1918 as an observer of French methods of training.

Although a provisional major of the Marine Corps, reserve division, at the end of the war, he resigned that commission before he became Secretary of the Navy.

LOYAL TO POLICIES.

An outstanding characteristic displayed by Denby as a member of the Cabinet was his loyalty to the policies of the President. That loyalty was tested to a marked degree when the project for the Washington naval limitation treaties took shape, as Mr. Denby is known to have concurred in the views of those high officers of the Navy who held that a five-three ratio of naval strength as between the United States and Japan would serve to tie the hands of the government in the Pacific in the event of any future war emergency there.

The secretary believed firmly, however, in the peace policies of President Harding and at no time permitted any dissenting view he might have on the technical side of the question to interfere with loyal cooperation by his department in the treaty negotiations.

From the beginning of the oil lease inquiry the secretary maintained that the lease itself, wholly aside from anp possible question of corruption that might be involved, was of vast importance to the Navy and the nation.

RULING ON $1,500,000 WAR DEAL UPHELD

New York, Feb. 18.—Federal Judge Mayer, in United States Circuit Court of Appeals, today affirmed the recent decision of Federal Judge A. N. Hand dismissing the government's accounting against the Butterworth-Judson Corporation and others. The litigation concerned an advance of $1,500,000 made by the government to the corporation on a contract let for 72,000,000 pounds of picric acid for use in the war.

Dear Editor:

The Joint Committee on State and National Legislation of the Massachusetts Medical Society and the Massachusetts Homeopathic Medical Society approves of the efforts of the Boston American to expose and rid the Commonwealth of Massachusetts of incompetent practitioners of medicine. On the police side, however, the paying teller of the bank has stated that Anderson, when he drew the firm's money, remarked that this part of the country was "a tough place to live in during the Winter."

He told the teller, according to the latter, that he intended visiting a warmer climate "some time in the future."

Miss Stafford was under the care of a physician at her home today. The physician has ordered absolute quiet for the grief-stricken girl, following her avowal of faith in Anderson.

In Lynn and Revere it was said Anderson and Miss Stafford had planned to marry next June. Miss Stafford has been seen constantly in his company and the couple attended many social functions together. Their engagement was announced a year ago.

Three auditors were set to work today on Anderson's books in the factory office. Anderson, it was learned today, had been instructed to balance his books last week, that the approaching audit might be made quickly.

BROADWAY-MADDENED BROKER, IN ASYIUM, SOBS FOR DANCER

LEWISOHN, PAL OF ELWELL, VICTIM OF GAY CAREER

New York, Feb. 18.—The gay path illuminated by Broadway lights and sprinkled with wine, women and song, ended in the cold, dark silence of death for Joseph Bowne Elwell, turfman and society favorite, on a June morning in 1920, and now not quite four years later, the same path has culminated in a fate more tragic than death for one who was a boon companion of the murdered Elwell.

On the night before the sportsman and Broadway Brummel was discovered shot to death, Walter Lewisohn of No. 987 Fifth avenue, member of the prominent family of bankers, gave a gay party at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Elwell spent a part of his last night on earth as Lewisohn's guest, going with the party to the Ziegfeld Frolic on the New Amsterdam Roof.

Lovely women—Mrs. Walter Lewisohn, the former Selma Kraus, and her sister, Viola Kraus, who is living abroad, were present—and there was a great deal of sparkling gaiety and dancing.

A small cottage at a private sanitorium near Greenwich, Ct., with a restricted glassed-in veranda and an unanswered phone connection with the merry world, whose capital is Forty-second street and Broadway, is the environment in which Walter Lewisohn today frets away lonely hours.

Lewisohn is not a sane man. He babbles unceasingly into the telephone—the operator at the switchboard of the Blythewood Sanatorium has orders to ignore the signal from Lewisohn's cottage—and one name recurrs again and again in the one-sided conversation. That name has been spelled in electric lights in the gay centers of night life in New York and Paris. It is Leonora.

Leonora Hughes, dainty blond dancing partner of Maurice, is the will o' the wisp the unbalanced mind of Lewisohn darts after, loses, then wistfully regains.

PAYS FOR GAY CAREER.

Lewisohn is a young man. He is not yet forty. He is well built and slender. He is charming in manner and cultured in speech. He does not look ill. But his brown eyes are very weary as eyes are from long straining to pierce a fog that will not dissipate.

He has been an inmate of the sanatorium, which is composed of a cluster of some fifteen buildings on a wooded slope northeast of Greenwich, since the early Summer of 1923.

Lewisohn was committed to the sanatorium, which specializes in the treatment of mental disorders and nervous diseases, by his family. He was committed against his will.

He considers his confinement in the little white cottage, known as The Orchard, a successful maneuver to separate him from the life he loves, from New York, from Leonora, and from his wife, Selma, who sailed for Europe recently. Lewisohn will whisper to those who come in contact with him that he is the victim of a conspiracy.

The writer observed the dull, cramped routine of Lewisohn's days in the narrow world which has supplanted the bright night world whose stars are electric bulbs, where champagne flows—even now, if one has the price—and freedom is so broad that it becomes recklessness.

PRISONER IN ASYLUM.

As a patient in the sanatarium, this reporter was given opportunity to assimilate the full force of the awful price Elwell's friend, who danced to the same mad measure, has been sternly ordained by Fate to pay for an intemperate indulgence in worldly pleasures.

He is a prisoner. The hands that bar his way to his old world, to the graceful sprite who dances before his mind's eye, to the circle which is also minus Elwell, king of hearts, are gentle; but they are firm as any jailer's hands.

So Lewisohn turns to his futile telephone. He talks. Once, after standing for hours speaking into the unresponsive instrument, he fainted from fatigue. He thinks the telephone may in some way be connected with the wireless waves that girdle the earth and that Leonora may, wherever she is, sooner or later, hear his pleadings.

HURWITZ AND HILL CALLED BY CORCORAN

Prosecutors in the Blackmail Cases Summoned as Defence Witnesses in Middlesex

Attorneys for William J. Corcoran, Kenneth Merrill, Mrs. Theresa Duggan, Mrs. Lillian Hardy Reese and Theodore Bearse, in Middlesex Court, today sought to quash the indictments against their clients.

There was considerable surprise when court opened and Arthur D. Hill, special assistant district attorney for Suffolk county and Albert Hurwitz, former assistant attorney general and prosecutor in the so-called blackmail cases, appeared in court as witnesses called by the defense.

These two attorneys had active charge of the Suffolk cases involving Corcoran and others and their being subpoenaed by the Corcoran attorneys caused considerable comment.

Attorney Joseph P. Walsh, leading counsel for the defence, told Judge Whiting that he had a matter of some forty motions to present to the court before the trial actually started.

The motion to quash the indictments was the first of these taken up.

Corcoran, Mrs. Duggan, Mrs. Reese and Bearse are charged with conspiracy to attempt to extort money from Kenneth Merrill. The latter and Mrs. Reese are charged with a statutory offence.

Attorney Walsh, in presenting his first motion, argued that the penal code of Massachusetts fails to mention any such crime as that which is charged against Corcoran and his co-defendants and, therefore, the cases should be thrown out of court.

SENATE PASSES ROBERTS IN SHARP FIGHT

Special Counsel Will Begin Work at Once to Recover Oil Reserves

Washington, Feb. 18 (I.N.S.).—The Senate today confirmed the appointment of Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia as one of the special government counsel to prosecute the naval oil lease cases. The vote came after a short, spirited fight.

With Atlee Pomerene of Ohio already confirmed, no time will be lost by the counsel in pressing the action to recover the oil reserves. Headquarters already have been reserved here for Roberts and Pomerene and plans have been completed for employing a host of legal talent to assist in prosecuting the suits. Several of the country's most prominent attorneys are understood to have offered their services as assistants. They are expected to be called upon when the cases get into court to help handle the cross examination of the defendants and witnesses.

Will Ask Bankers to Explain Oil Stock Deals

Washington, Feb. 18.—Sensational developments in the oil lease scandal probe are before the Senate committee, and will be considered next Monday, when the investigation is resumed.

The committee expects to have before it Harry Payne Whitney, multi-millionaire of New York and associate of Harry F. Sinclair; Elmer E. Smathers, J. Philip Bankard, Harry B. Bankard, and also the order clerk and office manager of J. P. Bankard & Co. of No. 5 East 44th street, New York.

The committee is understood to have received information that the Smathers Brokerage House handled the accounts of all high officials in Washington who speculated in Sinclair stock when the tip went abroad that the Mammoth Oil Company, Sinclair's concern, was to get the Teapot Dome lease.

Senators of the probe committee conferred with attorneys of Edward B. McLean, Washington newspaper publisher and intimate friend of the late President Harding.

McLean's representatives are understood to have indicated that the Washington publisher wishes to help in every way possible.

Circumstances are such, however, that McLean desires to know in advance whether the committee and the special counsel will receive his co-operation in a friendly spirit.

PRISONER IN AGAIN, OUT AGAIN

Frank Ferrari May Get Into Police Net, but He Refuses to Stay

Frank Ferrari can be put anywhere, but he won't stay put. So today the police are hunting him again, after defaulting $5000 bail on fourteen counts of forgery, uttering and larceny. The police are investigating the bail bond.

Several weeks ago Ferrari, whose home is in Malden, was released from the Conford Reformatory. A few days later he was sent for by the parole board and he visited the parole office in the State House. They put him in a chair and told him to wait.

While waiting he overheard a conversation which led him to believe he was going to be sent back to the reformatory. He was too fleet and they didn't even cut down his lead.

Last Saturday Police Inspectors Dorsey and Augusta arrested him for his alleged illegal penmanship activities. He was bailed yesterday in $5,000 by Mrs. Sarah Smith of Sumner place, Roxbury. But Ferrari was not in court today when his case was called.

GAVE TRAFFIC COP FAKE NAME; FINED $5

Five dollars was paid today in Municipal Court by Frank Levin of Swampscott as the price for giving a wrong address to Traffic Officer Carlstrom after the latter had tagged Levin's automobile for being parked longer than the time limit.

"When you violate traffic regulations and a policeman asks your address, you make sure you give him the right one or you'l finld yourself in a more serious predicament than this," advised Judge Dowd.

In addition to the $5 fine for the alleged wrong address, Levin was fined $5 for "overparking."

DRUNKEN AUTOIST ESCAPES JAIL TERM

Only the fact that he chose the early morning hours, when traffic was light, for his alleged erratic driving, saved Byron S. Van Dyke of No. 1141 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, from a jail sentence today, on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Judge Dowd, in Municipal Court, imposed a fine of $50, advising Van Dyke, at the same time, that he was fortunate in having chosen the early morning hours for his alleged lapse.

GAS STATION THIEF HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Clarence O'Leary, twenty-eight years old, of No. 30 Cumberland street, Back Bay, charged with breaking and entering, was held in $5,000 for the Grand Jury by Judge Ahearn in Roxbury Court today.

O'Leary was captured by Patrolman Foley after an exciting chase, during which six shots were fired. Foley had surprised the man attempting to enter a filling station at Commonwealth avenue and Ashby street. The station has been robbed four times this Winter.

WOULD CUT HOTELS' THEFT LIABILITIES

David B. Hoar of Springfield and several hotel proprietors appeared before the legislative committee on judiciary today in favor of a bill reducing to $250 the liability of hotels for loss of articles, or to actual loss if the valuables are placed in the safe or vault of the hotel. The present liability is $1000 for goods stolen from rooms, and $3000 for valuables placed in the care of the hotel company. The bill provides also for an insurance charge.

AUTOIST SENTENCED AS DRUNK, APPEALS

Sentence of three months in the House of Correction for alleged operation of an automobile while under the influence of liquor was appealed today in Municipal Court by Harry H. Smith of No. 38 Proctor avenue, Revere. Smith was arrested after his machine had collided with the car of Dr. R. G. Moffatt, Beacon street.

CENTRAL FIGURE IN ODD LOVE TANGLE

MRS. FREDERICK P. KEACH

DR. KEACH PLANS TO SUE FOR ANNULMENT

Husband in 'Substituted Baby' Case Comes Back at His Wife's Divorce Action

Salem, Feb. 18.—Dr. Frederick P. Keach, wealthy dentist, will sue for annullment of his marriage with Mrs. Lillian Keach, he declares. Mrs. Keach has filed suit for a divorce from him, naming Mrs. Marian L. Lyman.

The divorce proceedings between Dr. Keach and his wife came up as a result of a recent statement made by Mrs. Keach that a twenty-months-old boy, Frederick Keach, Jr., whom she has mothered since its birth, and who has been spirited away to Canada, is not her own child, but was taken over by her at a hospital in New York. She claims the child is the son of Dr. Keach and Marian Lyman.

"MARRIED BEFORE."

Dr. Keach charges that when he married Mrs. Keach she gave her maiden name as Miss Lillian Nichols, when as a matter of fact she was the divorced wife of Charles H. Nichols, her maiden name being Kinsella.

The story told by Dr. Keach is that his wife told him that she was to become a mother in five or six months, and wanted to avoid the embarrassment of local society; so she went to New York. Six months later he received a telegram from her that the child was born. When the child was about two weeks old he went to New York and brought them home.

LYMAN SUING KEACH.

Mrs. Keach says that, by agreement with Marian Lyman, the latter person went to the hospital under the name of Mrs. Frederick P. Keach, and the child was registered in the hospital under the name of Fred, Jr.

Harold Lyman, a traveling salesman of Lynn, husband of Marian Lyman, has filed suit against Dr. Keach for $25,000 for estranging his wife. He now intends to have the decree nisi which his wife obtained against him a short time ago, annulled.

SEES MAJOR ADVANCE IN CRUDE OIL PRICES

New York, Feb. 18.—A major upswing in the prices of crude petroleum and its derivatives is probable, Joseph E. Pogue, a New York engineer, said in an address before the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers at the opening today of its one hundred and twenty-ninth meeting.

The price of gasoline, Mr. Pogue asserted, suffered a severe decline in 1923, reaching 84 per cent. of its pre-war price and sinking to the lowest level in the past eleven years. The explanation, he said, was to be found in overproduction of crude oil coupled with overproduction of gasoline.

HARDING TO RUN FINANCES OF HUNGARY

Boston Banker Chosen by League of Nations; Big Loan Expected Soon

New York, Feb. 18.—News of the selection of W. P. G. Harding as high commissioner of the League of Nations to Hungary for control of finance, indicates early flotation of an international loan, part of which will be offered in this country, international bankers said today.

It is believed the loan will follow along the lines of the one granted Austria when that country consented to the appointment of a financial administrator.

While the size of the loan will not be determined until after a survey has been made of Hungary's finances, it probably will run between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Geneva, Feb. 18.—The financial section of the League of Nations expects that the protocols for Hungarian reconstruction will probably be signed within a week.

Mr. Harding's appointment must be made by the League's council. But this could be arranged by telegraph.

Sir Arthur Walter, director of the financial section, plans to visit the United Staes in the early Summer in connection with the Hungarian loan, as it is hoped to place about $15,000,000 of this loan in America.

Mr. Harding, informed of his selection as director of Hungarian finances, told the Boston American today that while he had heard of such a proposition he has received no official notification.

"I do not even know the details," said Mr. Harding.

COOLIDGE 'MISLED' BY ADVISORS

Dakota Banker Says $10,000,000 Plan to Aid Wheat Farmers Spells Ruin

Washington, Feb. 18 (C.N.S.)—Charging that President Coolidge has had bad advice from some quarters which caused him to give the weight of his influence to the promotion of the Financial Service Corporation, the new $10,000,000 corporation organized to help Northwestern farmers, Joseph L. Page, a prominent banker of North Dakota, today denounced the new corporation as a dangerous experiment.

"There is grave danger of the control of many of the select banks of the Northwest passing into the hands of a gigantic holding corporation," said Page, "if the reported plans of the $10,000,000 corporation organized to aid the wheat farmers are carried into effect.

REGRETS COOLIDGE'S AID.

"It is my understanding that this corporation, which has been organized by private subscriptions, has the endorsement of President Coolidge and will receive ten times its capitalization in credits from the United States War Finance Corporation.

"It is further reported that this corporation will make loans to selected banks in the Northwest upon the personal obligations of stockholders of those banks secured by assignment of their bank stock as collateral. The loans are to be advanced to these selected banks to relieve them of frozen credits, or slow paper," said Page.

"Naturally, very little will be realized on this class of paper within the immediate future, and it is almost equally certain that the stockholders who personally obligate themselves will not be in a financial position to meet the loans when they fall due.

SEES RUIN OF SMALL BANKS

"I predict there will then follow a period of liquidation that will find the bank stockholders unable to pay these obligatins and their stock in their banks will pass into the hands of this financial service corporation. The result will be the creation of a gigantic holding corporation that will own the controlling stock in a large number of select banks of the northwest.

"While this may afford some temporary relief for credit conditions in the northwest I have grave apprehension that it is the handwriting on the wall for country bankers of the northwest.

"The bad conditions in the northwest could easily have been handled by the intermediate credit banks had they functioned as was intended by the Capper-Lenroot act which created them."

The year 1922 was a "vintage year" for Burley tobacco—the best Kentucky ever grew.

Favored all through the season with exceptional tobacco weather—just enough warmth and not too much rain—the crop developed a "body" and character seldom before equaled.

JURIST CALLS GOODWIN "DEFAMER" IN ATTACK ON JUDGES

Goodwin is contained in a public letter which contains the correspondence that passed between the judge and the registrar.

"I hope hereby," says the judge, "to bring this outrageous wholesale charge of selfishness and criminality against the judges of the district courts of the Commonwealth by Frank A. Goodwin to a head. A day or two after the publication of his attack I wrote him as follows:

Northampton, Mass.,
February 8, 1924.

Frank A Goodwin, Esq.,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

Are the newspaper reports of your statements before the legislative committee true?—Charging that before one-third of the judges of the district courts drunken automobile drivers "Were released because they have fixed it up with the courts," and that by "fixing it up" you meant "that the offender either hired a lawyer friendly with the judge or secured the services of an associate justice and got the policeman to lay off"; and that only "two-thirds of the judges are conscientious."

This is fighting talk, and I consider it a very serious charge. If you are correctly reported it should and must be investigated. Yours very truly,

JOHN B. O'DONNELL.

GOODWIN REPLIES

"Yesterday I received the following answer:—

February, 14th, 1924.

John B. O'Donnell, Esq.,
District Court,
Northampton, Mass.

Dear Sir:—

I have at hand your letter, a copy of which I also saw in a Springfield newspaper.

In order that there be no misunderstanding, this is what I said before the committee: "About one-third of the courts are doing nothing to stop drunken driving. In many instances the cases are fixed by favored lawyers or associate justices so that the defendant is let off when there is no question of guilt, and in many other cases, where there is no conviction, sentences are suspended and no punishment meted out."

This statement, in my opinion, is correct. If either you or anyone else doubts it come to my office and I will produce evidence of the truth of it. I will show you case after case where drunken drivers were acquitted when they were without question under the influence of liquor. I will even show you some cases where the defendant pleaded guilty, or wanted to plead guilty, and the court requested him to change his plea so the defendant could be let off. I think when you look over the cases in this office you will find some of them familiar to you.

If you come to my office, I wish you would bring a reporter from one of the Springfield papers with you.

Very truly yours,
FRANK A. GOODWIN,
Registrar.

"ANSWER RUDE."

"In this matter I am acting for myself alone. It will be noticed that my letter to him is couched in polite and courteous language, and that his answer is rude, ill-bred and unmannerly; and he does not deny the correctness of statements in my letter attributed to him.

"You will search newspaper files in vain for a copy of my letter to Mr. Goodwin which he says he 'saw in a Springfield newspaper.' This is only characteristic of the man, though he assumes to be worthy of a place beside George Washington, who never told a lie.

"So much for this funny end-man of Boston. Frankie likes the limelight and newspaper notoriety. Instead of bringing his case before the proper tribunal in the usual way, he, without the least provocation, writes a mean and scurrilous letter for publication against me in one or more newspapers in Springfield. What a nobleman he is! What had I done to him?

"LIAR, DEFAMER."

"That Mr. Goodwin and I may squarely meet the issue without innuendo of unmeaning words: I say that in charging me with selfishly or criminally allowing any defendant to 'fix it up with' me, he is a liar and defamer. In charging that I secured the services of an associate justice and got the policeman to 'lay off,' I repeat, Frank A. Goodwin is a liar and a defamer. I defy him and the world, and I hurl back in his teeth the false and wicked charges he has made against me. I am sorry to feel obliged to use the 'ugly' word; if he has any record in his office showing any such stuff against me, I denounce the person or persons who assisted him in making such record as a liar and a sneak.

"While I am presiding in our little court I have never and I shall never allow Frank A. Goodwin or any other man to control me or govern my official conduct, even if it drives Frank A. Goodwin to shout before and harangue legislative committees denouncing the judges of all the courts because they do not do his bidding in imposing prison sentences—and next day showing before them that he does not want prison sentences.

WON'T VISIT HIM.

"I am ready to meet Mr. Goodwin at any time and place before any proper tribunal, but I shall not visit his office with or without a reporter of the Springfield newspapers, any one of whom would shine in ability, decency and honor above Frank A. Goodwin as a registrar of motor vehicles. Every now and then we read 'proclamations' from Mr. Goodwin informing us of hundreds of people who have been killed by drunken automobile drivers. He evidently does not stop to think that such killing is a reflection upon himself for granting automobile licenses to a lot of scallawags, and then appearing before legislative committees, traducing the judges and courts because they do not make teetotalers of his drunken drivers.

LENIENT TO VETS.

"I have always admired the ex-soldiers of the nation. Mr. Goodwin apparently does not know that there are mitigating circumstances in the drunken automobile cases as in other cases. The minimum legal sentences in such cases is a small fine. When a soldier appears before me for the first time, charged with automobile driving while under the influence of liquor, and begs for mercy and promises to sin no more, he will never find a deaf ear on me. I consider his service for his country a mitigating circumstance. Whatever others may think, I feel that every soldier who risked his life between the bullets of the enemy and his country's life deserves all that he will be likely to get this side of the grave, Frank A. Goodwin to the contrary notwithstanding.

"Only this week a woman pleaded guilty before me to selling intoxicating liquor. When I called up her case for sentence, I learned from the government that she was instrumental in convicting the wholesale liquor dealer who furnished her the liquor. I considered this a mitigating circumstance. I fined the man $300, and I allowed the woman to go free. I make no apology to Goodwin or any other man for my act. What I have done I did in the open and above board. I fear no man.

"I AM READY."

"Evidently I have done some things that displeased Mr. Goodwin. If I knew that I must perform the duties of my office to the approval and satisfaction of Mr. Goodwin, knowing him as I now know him, I would resign.

"I have been intimately associated with the courts of this State for more than 40 years. Their reputation for ability, integrity and honor has always been second to none in America. It has been left for the ravings of Frank A. Goodwin, standing before a legislative committee, to attempt to smirch and tarnish the fair name and fame of the old Commonwealth, Mr. Goodwin, I am ready."

JOHN B. O'DONNELL,
Justice of the District Court.

When Judge O'Donnell's bitter attack against him was called to his attention, Registrar Goodwin was not inclined to discuss the matter at any length.

"My statements concerning the lower courts of this State never deal specifically with any judge. I discussed conditions generally and did not think of Judge O'Donnell at all.

"I simply repeat what I have said before, that Judge O'Donnell and a newspaperman are welcome at my office any time and I will give them every assistance to prove that my statements are correct."

Declares That They Boycotted "Sweet Lavender" Because He Was English

dom of their city because I am English. I don't see why they should act that way about it—I have nothing against the Irish, they're the best people in the world. I didn't have anything to do with the Irish troubles. I didn't shoot Mike Collins or take Britain's part.

"But just because I'm English they refused to come to our theatre, told their friends to stay away, so—what good was the key, what good was there for me to even attempt to give them a good show? As you Yankees say, all we got was the air, is that it?"

Then Mr. Gordon took a fling at the minds of the theatre-goers of Boston in general.

With great vehemence, suddenly shifting his thoughts from the Irish-English controversy, he declared: "During my short stay I found that they do not want good, clean, refined straight comedy—they go to the theatre to see naked women and slapstick silliness called comedy. They'll laugh at anything, but they do not appreciate a show like 'Sweet Lavender,' which is entertaining and would have been appreciated by the theatre-goers a few years ago."

FRANCE NOW HAS TEAPOT DOME SCANDAL

Claim Speculators Lose Billion Francs in Royal Shell and Mexican Eagle

Paris, Feb. 18 (I.N.S.).—France has an oil scandal which may rival the one at Washington, according to accusations made in the press today.

It was claimed French speculators lost 1,000,000,000 francs dealing in Royal Dutch and Mexican Eagle oil stocks in violation of the law, and that these speculations contributed to the sensational decline in the value of the franc.

The Matin claims that, despite the law forbidding importation of foreign securities and the law compelling all securities in France to be registered and stamped by the government several billions of francs' worth of oil stocks were imported into France in 1918 and 1919.

"It is useless to mention names," said the Matin. "Everyone knows them. Everyone knows that bankers and financiers made hundreds of millions of francs upon Royal Shell and Mexican Oil stocks. Everyone knows the names of the politicians who served as a screen for the bankers in question."

HORSE IS KILLED IN SOMERVILLE RUNAWAY

One horse was killed and another badly injured in a runaway at Somerville avenue and Cedar street, Somerville, today. A horse attached to a milk wagon driven by William Hall of Highland avenue, Somerville, became frightened, ran down Cedar street and crashed into a two-horse team owned by John P. Squire Company, and driven by Lester Jackson of Cedar street, Somerville. A shaft was plunged into the nigh horse, killing it instantly.

Continuing down Somerville avenue, Hall's horse was struck by an automobile truck driven by Angelo Long of Sherman street, Cambridge, and seriously injured.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Child's Hair with
"USE MULSIFIED"

If you want to keep children's hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last for months.

DEATH CLAIMS EX-FIRE CHIEF WILLIAMSON

Forty-three Years in the Chelsea Department, He Had Many Narrow Escapes

Former Deputy Chief R. T. Williamson, for forty-three years a member of the Chelsea fire department, died today at Boston City Hospital after a short illness with pneumonia. He was sixty-eight years old and was born in Medford.

Chief Williamson retired in 1919. Since then he had been living during the Winter with a daughter in Pennsylvania avenue, Somerville, and during the Summer in his cottage at Annisquam River, Gloucester.

As a fire-fighter he had many narrow escapes from death. In 1920, a year after his retirement, he clung to the bottom of a dory for two hours after it had capsized five miles off Gloucester.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter and one son.

Busy Week Ahead for Members of Hub's Smart Set, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE first of the Hundred Club dances taking place at the Hotel Somerset tonight ushers in a busy week for those who have their Winter domiciles along Beacon street and Commonwealth avenue way.

The mid-week will see a number of festivities given in honor of Miss Katherine Abbott and George Batchelder, Jr., whose marriage on Thursday afternoon will draw an ultra-smart throng to Trinity Church.

Friday evening promises to be a social "double-header," with the jolly Bachelors' Dance at the Somerset and the senior supper dance at the Copley-Plaza. Naturally the week will see a near avalanche of dinner parties preceding these various affairs.

Among the patronesses for the Hundred Club dances is Mrs. Henry St. John Smith (Constance Wharton) of Marlboro street.

A HOST of notables are sponsoring a concert to be given at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, February 28th, at Jordan Hall, in aid of the German children and hospitals.

Mrs. Henry S. Smith

Mademe Clara Clemen, the mezzo-soprano, and Moriz Resenthal, the pianist, are the artists for the concert, which is being held under the auspices of the Boston Relief Committee, Inc., in co-operation with General Henry T. Allen's committee.

Among the prominent folk sponsoring the affair are Mrs. Manfred Bowditch, Professor John Burgess, Dr. Richard C. Cabot, Mrs. David Cheever, Dr. Ernent Amory Codman, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell, Miss Rose Lamb, the Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, John F. Moors and Mrs. Ezra R. Thayer.

A week from today General Allen will be guest of honor at a luncheon at the Copley-Plaza, when he will speak on the German children.

ON the evening of the same date—the 28th—a large portion of society will make its way to the Arena to witness the skating carnival, which will be staged there for the Ellis Memorial House.

MARION FENNO

Next week's affair will be the thirteenth annual carnival for this benefit, and each year society is just as keen as ever to watch its thrilling program of ice stunts.

Miss Marion Fenno heads the committee in charge, her co-workers including Miss Jane Peters, William DeFord Beal, as well as Mesdames J. Harleston Parker, Stephen Sleeper and Robert H. Stevenson, Jr.

A large number of society folk themselves take part in the carnival, which is always preceded by a host of dinners.

Society Notes

Mrs. John S. Curtis of Spruce street has joined the Boston colony at Palm Beach, where she is visiting Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell of Manchester-by-the-Sea.

BLAMES FRENCH IN PALATINATE UPRISING

Dr. Stresemann Lays Culpability of Separatist Movement on Gen. de Metz

Berlin, Feb. 18 (A.P.)—Foreign Minister Stresemann, speaking before a German People's party meeting, denounced the injustice with which he said the Germans in the occupied territories had been treated and referred particularly to the recent events in the Bavarian palatinate.

The separatist movement had not arisen in any way from the will of the German people, he declared. The very fact that such events could occur at all was proof of the machinations of General de Metz, commander of the French occupation forces on the right bank of the Rhine.

Insofar as stabilization of conditions for reconstruction was concerned, nothing stood in the way except the separation, almost accomplished by France, of the occupied territories.

Negotiations with France, he said, were based on conditions in the occupied territories, and the memoranda which has been exchanged referred to re-establishment of freedom of customs and communications and all other questions affecting the re-establishment of German sovereignty in German territory.

In the negotiations with the expert reparation committees, Dr. Stresemann saw the first streak of silver on the sombre horizon. The victorious states themselves, he said, were beginning to doubt whether or not the path they were treading was the right one.

He referred to the findings of the Washington Institute of Economics, which, he recalled, assessed Germany's total payments in cash and kind at 25 billion gold marks, but he emphasized that most of the direct deliveries were in kind.

The French franc, said Dr. Stresemann, would continue to fall if the demands embodied in the agreements with the interallied mission for control of mines and factories proved impossible—and this was already proving to be the case—and if no settlement of the reparation problem were reached.

AGREE TO FRENCH "YELLOW" BOOK

Paris, Feb. 18 (A.P.)—The United States and British governments, it was announced today, have consented to the publication by the French government of a yellow book containing documents relating to the peace negotiations with reference to the occupation of the Rhine and the security of France.

It was the French government's request of Great Britain for consent to publish these documents that stirred up the recent controversy over what Lloyd George said to an English interviewer regarding an alleged agreement between President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau at the Peace Conference on the question of the occupation of the Rhineland.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Twenty-five years ago Colonel Orrin R. Wolfe, chief of the 98th Division, took part in several actions against insurgent forces in the Philippine Island. Yesterday orders citing him for gallantry in two instances were published by the War Department.

REPAIRING MONTANA AFTER SEA BATTLE

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 18 (I.N.S.)—The Atlantic transport liner Montana, New York to Hamburg, is undergoing repairs here today after being badly damaged in a gale 500 miles off New York. The liner, with general cargo, arrived here in tow of the steamer Poland of New York. The Montana's rudder was broken at the head, her tiller smashed and rudder engine twisted.

$100,000 for the Man Who Catches Butler Taking a Drink

Philadelphia, Feb. 18.—Director of Public Safety Butler declares he and Mayor Kendrick are being shadowed by private detectives in an effort to "get something" on the administration.

"If I ever take one drink, I'm a goner!" The general declared. "And if the mayor touches a drop, he's a goner, too, and the whole administration.

"There's a prize of $100,000 for the man or woman who furnishes proof of a lapse on my part from the straight and narrow path."

DAIL TO BARE PLOT ON LIFE OF COLLINS

Dublin, Feb. 18 (I.N.S.)—A government scandal, involving wireless contracts and a plot against the late Michael Collins, will probably be aired in the Dail Eireann at an early date.

Sensational revelations may be forthcoming. A committee, which has been investigating, has cleared a majority of high government officials, but it is understood differences have developed over the findings of the committee between President William T. Cosgrave and Postmaster-General Walsh.

Reports are current that, when the charges are made public, certain well-known figures will be accused of attempting to obtain funds from British sources in order to "double-cross" Collins.

PROBE CRASH THAT KILLED BOECKEL

Three Drivers Who Figured in Smashup Called to Testify at the Inquest

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 18.—Efforts to fix responsibility for the automobile crash on Torrey Pines grade Friday, as a result of which Norman D. "Tony" Boeckel, star third baseman of the Boston National League team, died at La Jolla, will be made here today at a coroner's inquest.

Principal witnesses summoned for examination are Bob Meusel of the New York Yankees, Robert Albright, Los Angeles theatrical man, and John Healey of Oceanside, Cal., driver of the truck that collided with the machine in which the ballplayers and Albright were returning to Los Angeles from Mexico.

R. H. Sharp, driver of the third car that crashed into the wreckage, also will testify.

The three drivers give conflicting accounts of how the fatal accident occurred, each shifting the blame upon one of the other two.

Following the inquest, Boeckel's body will be sent to Los Angeles, the home of his parents, for burial.

Can't Discard Wife for Smoking; It's Not Improper

Utica, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Cigarette smoking by women is not considered a badge of disgrace nor an improper act for a woman of culture and refinement; nor is it ground for divorce, says Justice Ernest I. Edgecomb in dismissing a divorce action.

MAY HAVE SLAIN BROADWAY BUTTERFLY TO SEAL HER LIPS

UNREVEALED EVENTS IN GIRL'S LIFE OPEN NEW TRAIL

New York, Feb. 18 (I.N.S.)—Detectives today returned to the theory that Louise Lawson, pretty Texas musical student, was slain to seal her lips.

While the probability that Miss Lawson was slain by robbers for $15,000 worth of furs and jewels, had not been entirely abandoned, police have unearthed several clews in connection with the new theory of the crime.

Previous unrevealed events in Miss Lawson's early life formed the basis for this theory, detectives said. Mrs. Mary Ward Hartwell, aged woman with whom Miss Lawson lived shortly after coming to New York six years ago, conferred with detectives. Miss Charlotte Wakefield, former chorus girl and Miss Lawson's closest friend, also gave additional information.

At the same time detectives investigated the reported attempt of an unidentified man to rob Miss Olga Morton, pretty cabaret dancer, who, according to her story, was bound, gagged and attacked in her apartment.

While Miss Morton's experience had no connection with Miss Lawson's death, the alleged attack of which she told was in many ways identical to the method used by the Texas girl's slayers.

Detectives expressed belief that Miss Morton may be suffering hysteria and imagined she had been attacked.

Police also placed the story told by eleven-year-old Alma Kingsley in this class. The girl called police to her home during the absence of relatives and told of fighting off two men who demanded the key to a jewel box. The girl, relatives say, had been reading of the Lawson murder.

Police today expressed hope of gaining from "Dapper Dan" Collins, arrested in Paris recently, information which may go far in solving the murder of "Dot" King—a killing almost identical in every detail to the slaying of Miss Lawson.

U. S. WITHHOLDS DUNS ON WAR DEBTS

Commission Is "Taking All Practicable Steps to Bring About Entire Funding"

Washington, Feb. 18.—The American government's war debt policy remained unchanged after a conference today of the Debt Commission. The commission failed to act on proposals that the debtor governments be reminded again that the United States is awaiting funding proposals.

The commission issued this formal statement after the two-hour meeting:

"The commission is taking all practicable steps to bring about a funding of the entire indebtedness to the United States.

"At the moment certain debtor nations have commissions either in this country or expected here shortly for the purpose of taking up questions relating to their indebtedness, namely Czecho-Slovakia, Esthonia, Poland and Jugo-Slavia.

"These debts, as well as the other debts, together with appropriate proceedings relating thereto, are receiving the constant attention of the commission."

Members favoring a more positive stand by the commission in the meeting renewed their proposals for a circular note to the debtor powers, but the suggestion got no further than a general discussion.

The diplomatic representatives here of Esthonia and Poland have been in communication with debt commission officials concerning funding negotiations, but those officials declined to say how far the discussion had proceeded.

The two ministers have been officially designated by their respective governments to conduct the negotiations, but neither has yet met with the commission as a whole.

CORPORATIONS FIGHT PUBLICITY ON BIDS

Solid opposition was voiced by public service corporations before the Judiciary Committee at the State House today to the bill of Charles A. Coughlin of Medford, who asked the public service corporations be required to advertise publicly for bids before making contracts for the construction of work or for the purchase of supplies.

The Boston & Maine, the New Haven, the Boston & Albany, New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Western Union Telegraph Company, Boston Elevated, Boston Consolidated Gas Company and the Massachusetts Electric and Gas Association opposed the measure as detrimental to the proper conduct of business.

M'ADOO STILL UNSTAINED BY DOHENY OIL

Cummings Flays Republicans and Teapot Dome at "Advisability" Meeting

Chicago, Feb. 18 (I.N.S.).—"This is not Mr. McAdoo's fight; it is our fight. The responsibility is not on him; it is on us."

This declaration was made today here by Homer S. Cummings, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, in his keynote speech opening a meeting of Democratic leaders from all parts of the country on the "advisability" of William G. McAdoo as a presidential candidate in view of statements of his services as attorney for E. L. Doheny, oil magnate.

Confidence that "McAdoo is not stained by Doheny oil" were expressed as over 200 Democrats convened.

A goodly scattering of women were noted in the gathering. Quite a number of railroad labor men were also seen, including Daniel Ryan of the carmen's union, President Sheppard of the railroad conductors' body, and others. David Ladd Lockwell of Ohio presided.

The conference was called, Mr. Cummings said, "not only to discern the fortunes of an individual but to consider the fate of the cause of liberalism."

"Those who control the Republican party," he said, "in a desperate attempt to divert attention from their own dereliction, are striving to implicate Democrats in the disgraceful disclosures in the Teapot Dome scandal.

"Not one Democratic official and not one person mentioned in connection with the Democratic presidential nomination has been touched by the revelations.

"A special attempt has been made to discredit Mr. McAdoo but it is known and admitted everywhere that Mr. McAdoo had no connection directly or indirectly, with these scandals.

"The mere statement of the situation reveals the absurdity of the suggestion that there has been any impairment of his strength as a candidate.

"The forces of liberalism have gathered [illegible] Mr. McAdoo to continue the struggle which began in 1913 to free American institutions from the thraldom of special privilege."

George F. Milton, manager of the McAdoo forces in Tennessee, reported that McCadoo clubs all over Tennessee had passed resolutions demanding that McAdoo continue in the race.

J. H. Campbell, in charge of the Wes Moines McAdoo headquarters expressed his belief that "the Democratic party cannot afofrd to establish the precedent of permitting a candidate to withdraw at the instance of partisan attack emanating from the cess-pool of partisan political intrigues and corruption."

GOING TO MAT WITH MELLON ON BONUS

Miller to Prove That Government Is Able to Pay Its Debt to Veterans

Washington, Feb. 18 (I.N.S.).—Col. Thomas W. Miller, the alien property custodian, returned to Washington from New York today, prepared to "go to the mat" with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon over the question of whether the government was financially able to pay a bonus to its world war veterans.

Miller told International News Service that he would stand squarely behind the charge made in his New York speech that officials of the treasury department had "juggled" figures to mislead both President Harding and President Coolidge into believing that the government faced a big deficit and could not pay a soldiers' bonus.

Miller's charge brought about a sharp and emphatic denial from Secretary Mellon and it was reported at the Treasury today that he contemplated an appeal to President Coolidge, either to compel Miller to retract his charge or to name the Treasury officials involved in the alleged juggling of official figures on the government's financial standing.

The accusations made Colonel Miller are not new, but this is the first time they have been given currency by a government official, responsible equally to the President with the Secretary of the Treasury. A situation has thus been created which admittedly demands executive action.

Charges that treasury figures were "juggled" to mislead Congress and the country as to the state of the national finances in relation to appeals for a soldiers' bonus have been made by officers of the American Legion and repeated in Congress. Accusers of Secretary Mellon have pointed mainly—as Colonel Miller did—to the estimate made during the Harding administration that a bonus could not safely be paid because the government faced a deficit of $600,000,000.

FRENCH FRANCS DROP TO NEW LOW LEVEL

New York, Feb. 18.—Heavy selling of French francs, apparently based on speculative uneasiness over the difficulties encountered by Premier Poincare in connection with his fiscal program, today forced French exchange down to a new record low level at 4.25 cents, a decline of 12 points from Saturday's closing price.

For the second time this year the French franc sold below the Italian lire, which with the Belgian franc, also declined in sympathy.

FINDS GREAT OIL FIELD IN CHINA

Shanghai, Feb. 18.—Claiming to have discovered the world's greatest oil fields in Chinese Turkestan, Major S. T. Dockray sailed for England today to negotiate with British oil companies for concessions in Turkestan.

The new oil field stretches from Urumshi to Aksu, according to Major Dockray, and is several thousand square miles in extent. He believes it to be an extension of the famous Baku oil deposits.

And so do the children

Some Families Are Never Ill

FORTUNATE are the children whose parents fully realize the seriousness of constipation. Hospital records prove that 75 per cent of all disease originates in bowel obstruction, or constipation. Young children cry because of it; school children are hampered in their studies; grown people are made 25 per cent less efficient; elderly people's blood pressure increases 28 per cent. Realizing this Mrs. Carrie Moss of 1714 Church st., Lynchburg Va., Mr. Louis C. Grahl of 1569 Winton ave., Lakewood, Ohio, and innumerable others, give a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at the first sign of constipation, and have no sickness among their children.

Largest Selling Laxative

Every up-to-date family medicine chest should contain a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and palatable aromatics, a prescription written 30 years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who practiced medicine 47 years. You can buy a bottle in any store where medicines are sold, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. We guarantee that if you will give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a child or for a few nights to an adult it will relieve any case of constipation no matter how chronic, or your money will be refunded.

10 Million Bottles a Year

Use it once and you will never again take coal-tar drugs in candy form, calomel or salts. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable laxative free from opiates and narcotics. It can be safely given to infants, yet it effectively moves the bowels of adults. It acts gently; does not cramp or gripe. Keep it in the house and use it for any indication of bowel obstruction such as constipation, biliousness, torpid liver, dyspepsia, pimples and like skin eruptions. Give it early and it will break up a fever or a cold overnight. A spoonful proves it.

Why People Smile

As they never did in the old days

They combat the film on teeth

There is a new way of teeth cleaning which millions now employ. It combats the film which hides tooth luster. It gives teeth their natural beauty.

You see the results wherever you look. Teeth which once were clouded glisten nowadays. And people smile to show them.

If you admire whiter teeth and want them, make this delightful test. It will quickly show you an easy way to get them.

Stains lie in film

Film is what clouds teeth—that viscous film you feel. Under old-way brushing, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film is the great tooth enemy. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

No old-time tooth paste could effectively fight film. So countless teeth brushed daily would discolor and decay.

They found two ways to fight it

Dental science has in late years found two ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

These methods have been approved by many clinical tests. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it. The use quickly spread the world over. Careful people of some 50 nations enjoy its benefits today.

Another enemy

Another great enemy is starch deposits, because of the acids which they may form. Nature endows the saliva with a starch digestant to digest those deposits. It gives the saliva alkalinity to neutralize mouth acids. But, with modern diet, these agents are generally too weak.

Pepsodent multiplies that starch digestant, it multiplies that alkalinity. So every use gives increased power to those great tooth-protecting agents.

These combined effects will be a revelation to you. They will give you new conceptions of what clean teeth mean.

See the results

Send this coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Compare this new way with the old. Judge by what you see and feel. Then decide for yourself what is best. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

POLICE OPEN PROBE OF "TAXI SKINNING" BY BOSTON DRIVERS

CROWDING OF STANDS MUST STOP

Chauffeurs With Court Records to Lose Licenses; Wilson Aids in Investigation

A sweeping investigation into taxi conditions in Boston, with regard to "taxi skinning," crowding of taxi stands, encroachment by drivers on rival's stands, and personal fitness and character of drivers, has been inaugurated by Deputy Police Superintendent Thomas Goode at police headquarters.

The inquiry was begun on order of Police Commissioner Wilson, who declared today that "no man is too small and no company too big to be made to live up to the rules and regulations of the police department."

Licenses of all drivers found to have a record of arrest and conviction for any felony or any misdemeanor such as larceny or taking part in a brawl, will be suspended, the commissioner declared. Thus far more than twenty drivers have drawn license suspension of from two to thirty days for alleged infraction of the regulations.

"There is too much skinning being done on private property," it was declared today at police headquarters. Taxi stands are being greatly ovrecrowded by various companies, with the result that at some stands traffic is slowed up and in many cases blocked entirely.

The complete department reports are being scrutinized in connection with the drivers and any driver found to have a court record will be in danger of losing his license. In time every holder of a hackney license will be quizzed by Deputy Superintendent Goode or his assistants.

Special Officers John Crossen and William Donahue, automobile officers of the Back Bay station, have been detailed to aid Deputy Superintendent Goode in his investigation.

SLAYS JUDGE AND SELF IN COURTROOM

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 18.—District Judge W. M. Morning was shot and killed today by Wallace P. Wallick, one of the parties to a divorce suit being tried before Judge Morning. Judge Morning fell mortally wounded and died a few minutes later in his office.

Neither the attorney nor Mrs. Wallick was injured.

After Morning fell mortally wounded, Wallick shot and killed himself.

BLUE IN SKY DUE TO NITROGEN, SAYS SAVANT

London, Feb. 18.—The accepted explanation of the blueness of the sky as being due to well-understood action of the sun's rays upon particles in the atmosphere is challenged, according to the Daily Mail's Copenhagen correspondent, by Professor Vigard of Christiania University.

Professor Vigard suggests, the atmosphere of the earth outside the air stratum is shut up as if in a balloon whose wall consists of a solid mass of crystalline particles of nitrogen.

It is this, he says, which gives the sky its blue color, and it accounts for several other phenomena, including the fact that radio waves follow the contour of the earth.

A scientific commentator says the discovery may help toward an understanding of radio phenomena, and, if true, shows radio communication with other planets is impossible.

FALL SHOWS HER THE WAY TO LOSE WEIGHT

Brockton Woman's Tumble in Theatre Leads to Method of Reducing 60 Pounds

A darkened theatre, a late comer, a seat not replaced, a hard fall—and Mrs. Lottie McCarthy of Brockton lost sixty pounds in weight that she had been trying vainly to lose for years.

Not that the fall itself shook off her superfluous weight. Landing suddenly on the base of one's spine is not a recommended weight-reducing method.

But the fall occasioned through her forgetting to replace her seat in the theatre after allowing the late comer to pass, paved the way for her discovery of a weight-reducing method that has proved a boon to Boston and Brockton women. She characterizes her accident as "fortunate."

Hundreds of women, above weight, have come to her, desirous of learning her method. Last year there were 1,000 such women—flappers and sixty-year-old women "with more pep than the flappers."

LOVED BY NOBODY.

"If nobody loves a fat man, then nobody loves a fat woman, either," is Mrs. McCarthy's philosophy with regard to obesity. "I tried several methods of reducing without much success. Finally I got tired of the whole business and resigned myself to my fate.

"Then my luck changed. I went to the theatre one evening and on arising to let a late comer pass, pushed back the seat. I was so absorbed in the show that I forgot to put it in place again. I sat down hard on the floor and injured my spine."

A doctor advised an immediate operation, but before the time for which it was scheduled, a friend advised her to consult another doctor. This doctor said he would cure her without an operation. Incidentally he remarked that if Mrs. McCarthy was not so stout she would make an excellent physical culture teacher.

Desperately then, she renewed her efforts to find a method of weight-reducing that would be effective—and found it. "My success," she said, "was so apparent that everyone was asking me how I did it."

CAPITALIZES FALL.

This encouraged Mrs. McCarthy further and she decided to capitalize her "lucky fall" and at the same time aid other stout women by opening a studio. Last year's class numbered over 1,000 and four of these women, picked at random as examples, were found to have carved off a total of 136 pounds of fat.

"This is not a method where dieting is employed in a strict sense," said Mrs. McCarthy. "My treatment leaves the flesh firm and hard, which is not the case when dieting is used as a means of reduction."

SINGER VICTIM OF $107,000 ROBBERY

Former Member of Bostonians Loses Stocks and Gems in New York Hotel

New York, Feb. 18.—Mrs. Olive Waite of No. 50 Avenue de Segur, Paris, reported the theft of 520 shares of Independent Salt Company stock, valued at approximately $100,000, and $7,000 worth of jewels from her apartment at the Great Northern Hotel, where she has been staying for several weeks.

She had booked passage on the Berengaria last week, but postponed sailing until the theft could be cleared up.

The robbery occurred the night of February 9, when Mrs. Waite and her mother were at the theatre. On their return they found the apartment had been entered and everything in Mrs. Waite's jewel box was missing.

The stock is closely held, Mrs. Waite said, by the Werner family, who own the company, and she had been asked several times to sell it back to the company, but she refused. It is not listed, although Mrs. Waite said she understood the shares were valued at $200 apiece.

Mrs. Waite was the former wife of Archibald S. Waite, Cincinnati financier and public utility man, from whom she was divorced in 1911. As Olive Celeste Moore she was widely known at one time the prima donna of the Bostonians an opera company.

She is living in Paris and ha not appeared professionally in many years, although she still sings fo the entertainment of her friends.

BASEBALL FANS MOURN UNTIMELY DEATH OF TONY BOECKEL

KELLEHER TO PLAY THIRD

By NICK FLATLEY.

The unfortunate death of Tony Boeckel, Braves third baseman, removed all the customary joy from the start of another baseball season, as the fan considers it. The day the first team entrains for the South opens a campaign for the chap who pays his way in at the orchard during the summer.

Generally, the enthusiasm boils up after the Winter somnolence, but fans today were regretting the loss of one of Boston's best liked and most colorful athletes. For happy, laughing, walloping Tony was a real hero with the Braves Field fans. Through a couple of tailend seasons he injected plenty of amusement into the pastime, and he was all ready to be a real star, once his team started to play baseball.

The Late Tony Boeckel

His loss is a great personal blow to the Boston baseball lovers, and a sad handicap to Manager Bancroft with his new team. For Tony, though not the greatest fielder in the world, was one of the game's hardest and most dangerous hitters.

No pitcher in the universe worried him the least little bit up there at the plate. And every flinger hated to see him come up in the pinch. With the exception of Hornsby, he could hit a ball longer distances than any other man in the National League.

Boeckel would have been a hustling, peppery, fighting player, alongside the energetic Bancroft. He was better than just good when playing along carelessly with a cellar team that didn't have any pep or objective. We always had the idea that he would rise to great heights, once his team hit the victory trail.

* * *

Tony was a big factor in the one drive the Braves have made in the last five years—back in '21 when they pushed the Pirates and the Giants for the league lead through a hectic August. Boeckel bombarded and battered all sorts of pitchers and had a daily habit of coming through splendidly in all pinches. His performances through that particular splurge made such an impression on the league that practically every club tried to get him at one time or other.

* * *

Tony played baseball for the fun of it, and figures and averages never meant a thing in his life. He had a consecutive game record with the Braves, for instance, that would have attracted national prominence for almost any other athlete.

He joined the team in '19, finished the season, then played every game for the next two years. But he never even mentioned that little fact, or knew just how long his own string was.

He was a fighter on the field, but he battled out in the open, and was seldom chased by the umpires, though he had many a squabble with them. He had an awkward manner, and an unusual comedy style that helped along many gloomy days at the Wigwam.

* * *

The Braves are fortunate to have Jack Kelleher, who can step right into the breach. Jack is a mighty good third baseman, a chap who might have been a star in that spot had he ever been parked there long enough to get acquainted.

Jack Kelleher

We remember Dick Rudolph and Hank Gowdy discussing the same Jack a couple of years ago. Both these ancient Braves were very strong for him and were pulling for the Tribe to snare him at that time.

Dick and Hank had played in the famous Fall series at Attleboro, and Kelleher played with them. And the pair of them declared he was one of the smartest players they had met.

RED SOX LEAVE TODAY FOR TEXAS CAMP

By FRED C. LANE.

The baseball season is on. It's only a matter of hours when the Red Sox start South for their training camp. The annual pilgrimage to the Southland is always the first awakening of the baseball season after a Winter's lull.

Curtis Fullerton

Secretary Jim Price will lead the expedition to San Antonio, Texas, where the team will train for six weeks. Only the battery men will report to Manager Lee Fohl with this delegation.

The remaining members of the team will report for duty next week. John Donahue, a Roxbury youngster seeking a berth in the Sox outfield, along with Curtis Fullerton, pitcher, are all the members of the Red Sox leaving Boston tonight.

Manager Lee Fohl will be picked up at Cleveland and the remaining battery men en route. The majority of the players await the arrival of the Red Sox special in St. Louis.

This season's junket to the South is the longest trip the team has undertaken for some time. President Bob Quinn, anxious to get off the season on the right leg, is a firm believer in giving the players the proper amount of time in which to round into shape.

The players have one of the best ball parks in the South on which to train. The weather at San Antonio has averaged 80 degrees the past week, which is the right sort of temperature for boiling out the pitchers.

The usual long barnstorming trip that has been attempted by past Red Sox teams will be eliminated this year. The schedule mapped out for the squad does away with the long jumps which have wrecked many a promising club before the season gets under way.

The team will leave San Antonio on the night of March 31. Two games will be played at Fort Worth, on the 1st and 2nd of April.

Dallas, Texas, will be visited on the 3rd and 4th, Shreveport, Louisiana, on the the 5th and 6th, Memphis, Tennessee, on the 7th and 8th, Louisville, Kentucky, on the 9th, 10th and 11th, Indianapolis on the 12th and 13th, and then starts the trip for Boston.

Boston American, Boston.
Boxing and wrestling program for the week.

You can get every word of this even though you haven't even a one-tube set. No outside wires, tuning in, battery or anything else needed to get all the boxing and wrestling news over the Boston American "Radio."

Yes, Hawaii, we'll get down to business and give you all of the facts without fear or favor.

Don't bother putting on your head pieces. Just gaze straight ahead and let your eyelashes flicker.

Honeyboy Finnegan of Dorchester, the same place where Honeyboy Fitz lives, will parade into action tonight with Johnny Drew of Worcester as an opponent in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House.

It is the best booking between junior lightweights that has been made by a Boston club in a long time. As Finnegan and Drew each has a large following, a capacity crowd will jam the Grand Opera House this p. m.

There will not be even need of the fluttering one man cars out in Dorchester tonight, as the good citizens of that section will be in the big city to root for Honeyboy Finnegan.

FINNEGAN IS FORMER CHAMPION OF NAVY

Of course you know all about Al Carroll's protege. He is the former featherweight champion of the navy. He also whipped the army champ as well as the Canadian titleholder. Then to make the picture perfect he stepped forth and walloped Freddy Jacks, British champion.

Honeyboy is only twenty-one years of age and he has world's title dreams. He figures that all that stands between him and the world's junior lightweight title is a tussle with Johnny Dundee.

Finnegan is a sharp, vicious puncher. He does his sharpshooting with his left and is confident he will knock Drew out of the picture this p. m.

All of which is quite an assignment. Drew is the fistic pride of Worcester County. He has knocked off some very good opposition. When Red Chapman journeyed up to Worcester he was upset by Drew. Chapman later won a close decision from Drew in this city.

Jackie Williams says Drew's superior skill and speed will enable him to put the well known skids under Honeyboy.

Then Whitey Allen of Hyde Park who engaged in a couple of torrid sessions with Eddie Record, will battle eight frames with Ted Coolidge of Manchester, N. H., conqueror of Neddo Flanagan. Larry Malia of South Boston will mingle in an eight-rounder with Charley Donovan of Dorchester, while Nick Madonna of Lexington and Dave Powers of the South End will also go the eight-round distance.

LOUGHRAN AND DELANEY IN BATTLE AT COMMERCIAL A. C.

Yes, Colonel McKirdy, we got your message. Of course we shall say something about the ten-round quarrel btwen Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, one of the world's leading light-heavyweights, and Jack Delaney of Bridgeport. This pair of huskies mingles at Mechanics Building tomorrow night. Judging from the rush for reservations, the fans know a real bout when one is arranged.

Loughran has never been defeated in a Boston ring. For that matter Tommy seldom gets outpointed anywhere. While showing in this city, the Philadelphian has won over Ted Moore, Harry Greb and Johnny Wilson. Quite an impressive array of victories. Add to these a couple of wins scored over Mike McTigue, one at Philadelphia and the other in New Jersey, and you'll have to admit that the Quaker City kid with the big sock in his right is quite a fighting man.

Now about this Delaney person. He was formerly in the same "stable" with Johnny Wilson. He is a light-heavyweight and young. Therefore, he may eventually be battling for the heavyweight crown. Delaney is tall and rangy and fast, and how this boy can WALLOP.

This writer saw Delaney step into a ring with Jim Darcy of California over in New York, one evening last Summer. Darcy had a great deal of weight on Delaney. What a socking Jack handed out to his opponent.

Delaney is not as fastidious a boxer as Loughran, but if he crashes one of his right handers against his rival's jaw the fans will be searching for the exits. You will like Delaney after you have seen him let loose his tremendous right hand punches.

A word about the wrestlers.

George V. Tuohey, Boston's veteran promoter, has a spicy program billed for Mechanis Building tonight.

Zanovitch and Mondt promises to produce as many thrills as they did in their recent bout, while Pesak says he will prove to Saunders why he is called the "Tiger Man." A very attractive program, ladies and gentlemen.

And on Thursday night at the Grand Opera House, Paul Bowser, who always likes to deal with champions will stage one of the banner mat programs of the season. Stanley Stasiak, mighty son of Poland, will oppose Wladek Zbyszko, famous Polish wrestler. A police detail will be needed to handle the big crowd that will wish to attend this classic.

As they say in radio circles, you may now have the air as we are starting on our well known vacation.

Two weeks, please.

Good day everybody.

Jack Conway Picks Finnegan, Mondt, Pesak, Siegal

"Just so that everybody will be happy," says Jack, "I'll give the boys a little parlay. Play this across the board:

"Honeyboy Finnegan to defeat Johnny Drew at the Armory A. A. show tonight.

"Toots Mondt to topple Zanovitch and Pesak to upset Saunders at George Tuohey's wrestling carnival at Mechanics Building this p. m.

"Nate Siegal to start his come-back drive by disposing of Joe Pangraze at Quincy tonight.

"Wladek Zbyszko to pin Stanley Stasiak to the mat at the Paul Bowser's title battle at the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening.

"This is the most glittering flock of selections we have ever made. How do you like 'em?"

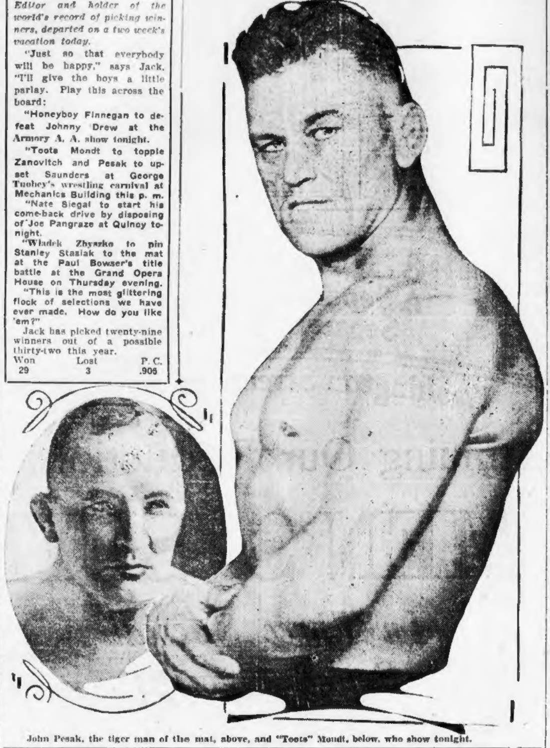
Matmen Who Took Rest Out of Wrestling



John Pesak, the tiger man of the mat, above, and "Toots" Mondt, below, who show tonight.

Mondt and Zanovich in Mechanics' Carnival

"Bring on the gladiators."

When George Tuohey issues the call tonight in Mechanics Building to start things going at 8:15 with Tommy Reccord and a selected opponent as a curtain raiser, the veteran promoter will set in action three pairs of wrestlers who will make Donnybrook fair look like a child's Maypole party.

George Tuohey.

This will be especially true of the main event. In this he brings back for a return match "Toots" Mondt, the sorrel-topped Colorado cowboy, and Paul Zanovich, the Lithuanian champion, who proved when he met Mondt before that he is something of a matman. When two such men meet something has to happen.

Mondt was surprised by the attack and defence of Zanovich as well as the terrific burst of speed the Big Lit uncorked.

"He caught me napping with that peculiar arm hold of his that flopped me so hard in the opening minute," says "Toots. "That took a lot out of me and I think I would have gotten him earlier had it not been for that. I have something new I hope to use with such effectiveness that Zanovich will be thoroughly eliminated from the picture after this evening. In the condition I am in I cannot see where I have any chance to lose."

Tommy Reccord.

Zanovich is set for revenge, and his condition is such that he looks even better than when he fooled the fans before.

There is much interest in the semi-final, in which John Pesak, the "Nebraska Tiger," takes on Elmer Sanders of Ashland, Wis. Sanders is fighting for recognition and his record indicates that he will prove a fitting opponent for Pesak.

Tonight's Program

Preliminary—Tommy Reccord vs. unknown, one fall.

Semi-final—John Pesak vs. Elmer Sanders, one fall.

Main event—Toots Mondt vs. Paul Zanovich, two out of three.

Referee—Cyclone Burns.

First pair called—8.15 sharp.

SEXTON LOOKS OVER THE PACIFIC LEAGUE

President H. M. Sexton of the National Association will make a trip around the Pacific Coast League and learn for himself just how affairs are conducted.

The visit is at the invitation of Harry Williams, president of the league, who expects to prove to Sexton that there is no syndicate baseball and no discrimination among clubs of the league, as charged.

TERRY PARKER TO BATTLE KID ROY

Terry Parker the North End featherweight, who beat Jimmy (Kid) Rice at Portland, last Tuesday, has been matched to box Leo (Kid) Roy of Montreal, at Lowell on Washington's Birthday afternoon in the main bout of ten rounds. Roy has been going like a house afire in Canada and only last week beat Tommy Noble in Montreal.

700,000 FANS ATTEND ENGLISH SOCCER PLAY

Approximately 700,000 persons paid an aggregate of £50,000 to see the thirty-two games played in the first ties for the English association cup. The largest single crowd was 39,127, which saw the game at Hillsborough, and the second largest was 37,500, which witnessed the contest between Arsenal and Luton at Highbury.

STASIAK TAKES ON ZBYSZKO TO A FINISH

Fans who have seen both Wladek Zbyszko and his polish rival, Stanley Stasiak, in action are wondering what will happen in their big championship match at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night. Many of them figure Wladek as the world's greatest wrestler and when right he is almost invincible.

Stanley Stasiak.

When you stop to figure that he beat men like Lewis, Stecher, Caddock, Charlie Hanson and others you can readily see just what a great wrestler he is. This year after Plestina had been following the big guns all over the country claiming they were all afraid of him he wrestled him in New York City, Zbyszko took him on and made him look foolish.

Now in Stasiak he meets a young giant that has not as yet struck his best slip. He is improving with each match. If he gets a little better control of his temper he will be invincible. He has almost superhuman strength and his knowledge of the game increases with each match.

Should Stasiak beat Zbyszko he will be the most-talked-of wrestler in the game today. On the other hand should he lose, and lose decisively, he has still a chance to make a name for himself.

Frank Gotch was defeated many times by Tom Jenkins, Dan McLeod, Fred Beel and others before he became champion. This has been the case in the career of many a champion. It is the bulldog fighting spirit that counts in a finish wrestling match.

Stasiak has plenty of this, and Wladek, the mighty son of Poland, as he is styled, will find he has a real evening ahead of him. The match will be to a positive finish. There must be a loser and a winner. Matchmaker Paul Bowser announced today that they would stand for no draw or anything of the kind, even if the men have to wrestle all night.

In the opening bout Jack Albright will meet Nick Bozinis, while in another bout Waino Ketonen, the champion middleweight wrestler of the world, will meet Bill Rudy, the rising young Boston star. Waino hasn't appeared here in over three years.

CLERGYMAN ONE OF DOG SHOW JUDGES

Although the field of more than thirty bull terriers to be benched in the Eastern Dog Club show in Mechanics Building this week includes most of the notable dogs of the breed in the East, one champion will be absent.

W. F. Kendrick

He is champion Fieldstone Gentle Knight, one of the best of the bull terriers owned by Rev. F. J. Heaney of Staten Island, N. Y. Father Heaney will judge bull terriers and Manchester terriers at the local show.

Father Heaney had planned to enter Gentle Knight for competition in the New York show last week and for exhibition only in the Boston show, as competition here is impossible because his owner is the judge.

The news recalled the instance a few years ago of the disappearance of the great bull terrier, Champion Queensbury Boatswain, owned by Mayor W. Freeman Kendricks of Philadelphia, a few days before the big Philadelphia show. When the dog was found a week or so later, investigation ascertained that he had fallen into the hands of owners of fighting dogs who had sent him into several battles with fighting terriers in the Philadelphia underworld.

NATE SIEGAL IN COMEBACK TONIGHT

Nate Siegal, as stout-hearted a ring warrior as ever stepped forth under the flickering calcium, will once more resume letting drive left and righ hand wallops when he meets Joe Pangraze of Quincy in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Casino A. C. of Lynn tonight.

Nate Siegal

Siegal is battling under the direction of Eddie Mack. It was Mack who piloted the Beechmont favorite while he was boxing in France as a member of the A. E. F.

Upon his return to America, Siegal went under the management of George Carter of Melrose, one of the finest characters ever connected with the boxing game. Carter, a prominent business man, later secured the services of Larry Conley. Finally Carter retired from the boxing game so as to devote all of his time to his business. Nate then drifted over to New York and joined Eddie Meade's "stable" of punch dispensers.

Siegal is back home once more, rested after a four months' layoff and prepared to go. He will receive a severe test tonight as Pangraze is a rugged, aggressive youth and can sock.

Frank Merna of South Boston and Lefty Williams of Lowell will furnish the action in the semi-final of eight rounds.

What the Boston American Says in Strong Editorial:

The Boston American has given an entire page to an editorial on the wonderful products of New England and why people should buy them. The Elcho is New England's best hand-made cigar. By using a long, expensive Havana filler the Elcho manufacturers produce a cigar they believe is not duplicated in the United States. The makers of the Elcho want the smoker to buy the Elcho cigar because of its quality, but at the same time why not follow the American's advice by booming New England's best products?—Advt.

CHARGES SACCO GUN BARREL "SHIFTED"

Sensation Over Alleged Death Weapon; Court Orders Full Inquiry

A new sensation has developed in the internationally celebrated Sacco-Vanzetti case with the discovery that the so-called death revolver which has been before Judge Webster Thayer, as the gun alleged to have been carried by Sacco on April 15, 1920, is not in all respects that gun.

Van Amburgh, firearms expert for the government, is said to have informed District Attorney Williams and Harold P. Williams of Norfolk county that the gun barrel has been "changed."

THINKS MISTAKE MADE.

The case is before Judge Thayer on several motions for a re-trial. Judge Thayer, about to make known his decision, had been studying the alleged death weapon.

District Attorney Williams thinks the transfer was made inadvertently when, on the last day for motions for a new trial, Albert H. Hamilton of Auburn, N. Y., firearms expert for Sacco and Vanzetti, dismantled three guns, two of his own and the original Sacco gun, and then reassembled them.

A full inquiry into the facts has been ordered by Judge Thayer. Expert Hamilton is said to have informed the court that the barrel now in the gun is one that formerly was in one of two other guns used by the defence as exhibits. Mr. Hamilton is to give his final opinion today or tomorrow.

WANT GUN TESTED.

The Sacco-Vanzetti defence committee has been pressing for some time to have the so-called Sacco gun discharged, by order of the court, in order that the bullet thus discharged might be compared with the bullet, which killed Frederick A. Parmenter at South Braintree four years ago this Spring.

Parmenter, paymaster for the Slater & Morrill Company, and Allesandro Berardelli, his guard, were shot down without warning and robbed of $15,000. Fifteen months later, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were convicted of the murder after a trial which lasted six weeks.

A committee of the Chamber of Commerce will accompany the visitors. On that committee are L. A. Coolidge, chairman; G. W. Brown, vice-president of the United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Charles A. Chase, of the General Electric Company, J. F. Deane, H. C. Meserve, R. M. Mauldin, E. O. Smith, T. J. Torrance, W. H. Walsh, Lynn V. Meekins, and Dyson Skkinner.

CUTTERS RUSH TO AID STRANDED VESSEL

Marshfield, Ore., Feb. 18.—Three coast guard cutters were speeding today to the south of Coos Bay Harbor in an effort to save from destruction the McCormick steamer Columbia and rescue twenty-three members of her crew.

Hopes are held that the vessel may be pulled off the north spit of the jetty on which the C. A. Smith two months ago was dashed to pieces and eleven lives lost and on which the Columbia rammed yesterday with sixty-six people aboard.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. F. X. MAHONEY.
Boston Health Commissioner.

MILK is one of the best foods for human beings. It is also one of the best foods for germs of all kinds to thrive on.

The authorities are constantly on the alert to see that the milk supply of Boston is kept pure and that it contains the required percentage of fats and solids, but with milk coming from thousands of sources the individual citizen must do his part to protect his own health and the health of his family.

Dr. Mahoney.

If you have any doubt about the purity of your milk supply, don't delay. Take a sample of the milk to Room 1104 City Hall Annex, and it will be analyzed without cost to you.

If a local dairy is supplying you with milk, why not go on a little tour of inspection and see that everything is sanitary. It is a low insurance to pay for your health, for milk carries germs easier than almost any other liquid or food.

Some of these germs, such as those causing sore throats, may be introduced into the milk because the animal is suffering from inflammation of the udder. Others may be introduced by the milker or other person handling the milk if such person is suffering from or exposed to any of these contagious diseases.

While the health authorities are continuasly endeavoring to keep the milk from diseased animals out of the supply, and to keep persons having infections from any contact with the milk supplied to consumers, the sources are so numerous that effectual oversight is impossible.

Pasteurization, if properly done, does not materially interfere with the nutritive quality, ease of digestion or the taste.

Don't blame the milk dealer for all the milk faults unless your acts are free from criticism.

If milk sours, have you kept it iced? If the milk is dirty, have you kept it free from dust and in clean vessels?

If the milk bottle is dirty, it is probably due to the fact that a consumer has used it for something other than milk. Are you so misusing these containers?

Do you return all milk bottles daily to the dealers? If not, get the habit.

Cleanliness in milk production means added expense. Are you willing to pay to have cow dung kept out of milk. If not, the fault is yours.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

I used to weigh 148 pounds and now weigh 120. Last July a doctor told me I would have to have some bone in my nose removed. I did. He told me I would have to pull a certain tooth, which I had pulled, and still I have lost steadily. My cheeks are hollow and my friends ask me if I have T. B. F. E. F.

I would suggest a thorough physical examination by a physician or at the tuberculosis dispensary in Rutland square, Boston.

Is it possible for a tumor at the time of an operation to return and become a cancerous tumor? Are these common? The patient was in a very weakened condition at the time of the first operation, having suffered two years before being operated upon. MRS. A. E. B.

A tumor may be cancerous and it is very difficult to completely remove it, even with an operation, so that recurrence is frequent. Such cases are not rare.

I have been troubled with headaches and have had my eyes tested for "far-sighted" glasses, which I was wearing, though I am near-sighted. I have pains in the back of my head and always worry. G. M.

Would advise you to wait until you get used to your new glasses. If the headaches do not subside, you ought to consult a physician about your other trouble.

What are the simple signs which might indicate that an infant has worms? A. T. R.

A sign of pin-worms in an infant is itching at the opening of the bowel, more apparent after the child has retired. Salt water infections or observation are likely to give evidence of their presence. If your child is losing weight and has a large appetite, it is also another sign.

TO JAIL RATHER THAN GIVE UP CHILD

The fact that another man is the father of the four-year-old girl he always believed to be his own child makes no difference to Leo Myette of No. 12 Dana street, Revere. Myette declares he will go to jail rather than give up the child. Ten days ago Myette's wife left him. Several days later she had him arrested on the charge of kidnaping the girl, Dorothea, and in Judge Brown's court testified that another man was the father of the child.

The judge found probable cause and Myette is now under $2,000 bail.

SHORTER OR LONGER, SKIRTS ARE WIDER

Paris, Feb. 18.—The length of skirts worn by fashionable women this Spring will depend somewhat the same distance from the ground upon personal preference. Judging from styles exhibited at the opening of the racing season at Long Champ.

Some of the models who paraded in the bitter breezes wore skirts falling only three or four inches below the knee, while others were about The new skirts are a little wider, anyway.

GREENE STILL IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Doctors Remove Bone Splinter Driven Into the Senator's Brain by Pistol Bullet

Washington, Feb. 18.—Senator Greene of Vermont, the victim of a prohibition chase within the shadow of the Capitol, remained in a serious condition today, no change having been observed during the night.

The bullet which hit him over the left eye Friday night while he was passing an alley in which two men in an automobile were being pursued by a prohibition enforcement party did not penetrate the skull.

It drove a bone splinter into his brain, however, necessitating a delicate operation.

He showed some improvement yesterday, but his physicians described his condition as still serious. They added, however, that he was resting as comfortably as could be expected.

VON KAHR QUITS AS BAVARIAN DICTATOR

Storm Centre of Fight Over Ludendorff and Hitler Trial Resigns

Munich, Bavaria, Feb. 19 (A.P.)—Dr. von Kahr, Bavarian military dictator, has resigned and General von Lossow, commander of the Bavarian reichswehr, also has tendered his resignation.

The trial of General Ludendorff and Adolph Hitler for their part in the Nationalistic "putsch" in Bavaria last November was to have begun in Munich today.

Hitler's supporters have been threatening another "putsch," which they declared would prevent the trial of their leader, and it has been reported that all parties were making efforts to put the trial off indefinitely, because of the political bitterness which it would be certain to stir up.

For some time there have been rumors that Dr. Von Kahr would resign as dictator. He has been constantly under guard because of threats of attack on the part of ruthless elements among those opposed to bringing Ludendorff and Hitler to trial.

The relations between Bavaria and the German central government have been strained for some time, the situation becoming acute when the Berlin government put radical measures in force last September to deal with threatened risings in both Nationalistic and Communistic quarters.

Bavaria resisted the measures taken by Berlin and declared martial law on her own account.

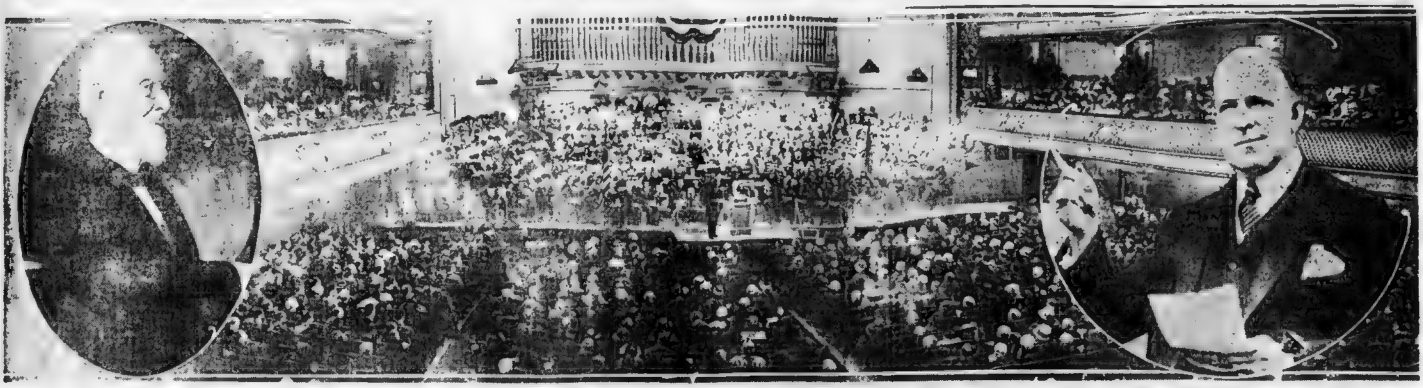
AMERICA MENACED BY GREEDY SELF-SEEKERS, WALSH CHARGES



SYMPHONY HALL PACKED FOR MEMORIAL MEETING. EX-MAYOR THOMAS N. HART (left)), WHO PRESIDED, AND SENATOR DAVID I. WALSH (right), ORATOR

STIRS 4000 AT BIG MEMORIAL MEETING

The American republic is not menaced so much by hostile alien propaganda, United States Senator David I. Walsh declared before an audience of 4,000 in Symphony Hall, as by the disregard for law and public rights by greedy self-seekers among her own citizens.

Home from Washington for the first time since the oil scandal broke at the Nation's capital, Senator Walsh reported that "iniquity among public officials is limited to a very few.

"More dangerous than these men, in my opinion," declared the junior Senator, "are those others who make reckless statements about their government [illegible] without [illegible] proof.

EX-MAYOR HART PRESIDES.

Senator Walsh made the trip to Boston to deliver the oration at the Washington Lincoln-Wilson Memorial exercises, held under the auspices of the city of Boston. Former Mayor Thomas N. Hart [illegible]

TRIBUTE TO WILSON.

[illegible] Walsh said in part, "deserves to have [illegible] Washington and Abraham Lincoln. He stood for high ideals. He fell as a soldier falls, one of the casualties [illegible] tribute to him.

"The fame of Washington and Lincoln require no ceremonial. They both live in the hearts of succeeding generations of Americans. Washington created the Republic; Lincoln preserved it.

DISREGARD FOR LAW.

"There were never so many problems awaiting solution as there are today. Discontent and dissatisfaction are widespread. Recent disclosures in Washington have added to the cynicism and give further proof that it is not propaganda from aliens coming to our shores, but the disregard for law and the public rights by greedy self-seekers among our own citizens, which will shake confidence and promote radicalism.

"This dissatisfaction with the existing order may not be as great as [illegible] but there is altogether more of it than is healthy.

"What are the reasons for it? On the one hand [illegible] where the [illegible] with questions of material [illegible] on the other hand, the widespread and insidious theory that, success being assured only by money and power, all means necessary to [illegible] are justified.

TREND TOWARD ANARCHY.

[illegible] The triumph of [illegible]

[illegible] ideals as enunciated by Washington [illegible] principles was what Washington strove to uphold.

"No government can survive which does not regard human rights before private rights. Neither can a government survive which does not in fact, as well as in theory, 'dedicate itself to the proposition that all men are created equal.' An autocracy under the name of democracy cannot be saved merely by the name.

"As in Washington and Lincoln's time the security of our institutions [illegible] honest, courageous champions of liberty, justice and [illegible] But more and more they [illegible] demanding deeds rather than words.

EUROPE SHOULD ACT.

"The American people would not tolerate usurpation of power by their own government and would tear up secret bargains, as we now are going to do at the National Capital. Europe never will have freedom until [illegible] need not expect America to waste much sympathy [illegible] if they do not care to [illegible] themselves free by ridding [illegible] of their militaristic [illegible] rivalries, jealousies and [illegible] and distrust of each other. [illegible] of our own people [illegible] scandals in [illegible] of corrupting [illegible] that have rocked the very foundations of democracy, the citizenship of Washington and Lincoln is still predominant.

CURLEY'S SON READS.

[illegible] M. Curley, Jr., of the Public [illegible] read Washington's farewell address, and Chandler M. Wright of English High School, Lincoln's Gettysburg address. John A. [illegible] of the High School of Commerce offered a "tribute to Lincoln." E. Mark Sullivan, corporation [illegible] Wilson.

The [illegible] features of the [illegible] Maxwell's "Keep On Hoping," and the "Star Spangled Banner." The Public Schools Symphony Orchestra assisted. From 2:30 until 3 o'clock John A. O'Shea gave an organ recital.

CAT FIGHTS RADIO IMITATION OF BIRD

One of WEAF'S listeners of Irvington, N. J., writes of a furious attack made by a friendly house cat [illegible] radio set as a result of a program broadcast by that station recently.

Miss Sybil Sanderson, F[illegible] famous bird whistler, gave [illegible] imitation that the cat, sound asleep in the corner of the room, suddenly awakened and leaped at the loud speaker in search of her prey. Finding her attack fruitless, the cat acted in a puzzled manner for some time attempting to reconcile the bird like tones from the loud speaker to the fact that no bird could be found.

WOULD PERMIT BROADCAST OF ALL MUSIC

Washington, Feb. 18.—Free use of copyrighted music by radio broadcasting stations, motion picture houses, theatres and hotels is sought by Representative Walter H. Newton of Minnesota in a bill that is likely to come up for action by the House this session.

The bill, if made law, would block the attempt being made by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers to apply a law passed years before the advent of radio broadcasting stations, providing for remuneration to the authors when copyrighted music is played without express permission.

Representative Newton charges in connection with his bill that certain publishers, through secret representatives posing as patrons, have induced radio stations, hotels, theatres and movie houses to play certain copyrighted music and then demand payment of a license fee because of "unauthorized rendition."

He holds that the playing of copyrighted music popularizes the pieces and increases their sale.

The Listener

President Coolidge is an ardent radio fan and is very fond of listening to the Meyer Davis Le Paradis Band which broadcasts from Station WCAP. The other night the band played "N[illegible] in the Wood" without announcement. Afterwards the announcer explained it had been played as the result of a telephone request from the White House.

Here's a new radio wheeze to try on your crystal set. A young man who built his own radio and takes great pleasure in its achievements, was listening to his friend tell how he could shut off a powerful local station and tune in outside stations. "Why, that's nothing," replied this y.m. "Last night I listened in on a quartet and with my set I could shut out one or two of the voices and make it a trio or a duet."

Butted in on the try out of a new station the other night. It was WJAY, from the Oak Park Arms Hotel, Chicago. After the concert it was announced that the formal opening would be held the following night. WJAY comes in as strong as any Chicago station. Here's luck!

Lawrence S. Mayes talks from WEAF on [illegible] "How to Take Care of Your [illegible]" That should take ten [illegible] I'll beat him to it. Don't carry [illegible] when you go subway riding.

554 Broadcasters Now

During January, twenty seven new broadcasting stations started operation and twenty [illegible] for the last time, the Department of Commerce states. Broadcasting gained seven stations and on February 1 stood at 554 stations.

WEATHER MEN TO FORECAST BY RADIO

Three floating weather bureaus, equipped with facilities for the reception of weather reports by radio and the broadcasting of forecasts to ships on the Atlantic Ocean, are planned by government meterological experts.

According to the plans, three Shipping Board vessels, in trans-Atlantic service, will carry two meterologists apiece. Radio reports from other vessels in the Atlantic will be compiled, and forecasts broadcast periodically, much as the work is done in branch offices ashore.

Such a service would be of tremendous value to ships at sea, in sea ports, and in coastwise service, and would undoubtedly save much property and perhaps lives, it is stated.

The masters of more than 300 shipping board vessels recently began taking weather observations twice daily.

Orders have been issued to the masters of the Shipping Board fleet to the effect that weather observations be taken daily at 7 a. m. and 7:00 p. m., 75th meridian time, and sent to the nearest naval radio station as soon as possible whenever vessels are more than 100 miles at sea. Off the South Atlantic coast when there are indications of hurricanes, observations are to be reported [illegible] of [illegible] distance of shore.

The Shipping Board and Navy Department have agreed to handle such messages free.

BROADCAST BALL OF WASHINGTON LEGION

For the first time, the U. S. Army, Navy and Marine bands will all be heard by radio [illegible] [illegible] of the District [illegible] Department of the American Legion [illegible] broadcast by Station WCAP. Among [illegible] of the [illegible] President and Mrs. Coolidge, Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft, Speaker of the House and Mrs. Gillett, members of the [illegible] and their wives and [illegible] National Commander of the American Legion.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Radio receiving conditions should be good tonight for broadcasts from all points in the United States. This is because of an equal barometric pressure which extends over the entire country.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now with Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, Creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Airplane Ride Over Blazing Forest Features "Flaming Barriers"

An airplane, driven by a mere girl over miles of blazing forest, furnishes one of the many exciting episodes in the feature picture being shown this week at the Fenway Theatre.

In "Flaming Barriers" Director George Melford has given us the story of an amiable but impractical inventor of a really efficient fire truck. Patrick Malone—played by Charles Ogle—has been unable to market his truck in a town which still clings to the old fashioned horse-drawn extinguisher.

But if old Malone is antiquated his charming daughter, Jerry—played by Jacqueline Logan—is as

Oils and Industrials Active With Tone Rather Heavy in New York Market

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

On a Train in the South, Feb. 18.—To be the victim of two train accidents within twenty-four hours is rather tough, you will agree.

After leaving Dallas, our train stopped for a long while and then on so running until we recovered on so running until we recovered most of the ground we had covered. Inquiry brought the tidings that a freight train had become smashed up and had torn up the track so badly that all traffic would be held up for nobody knew how long.

So we were sent careering —crawling, rather—off on a detour calculated to please the greediest globe trotter. Apparently we were using somebody else's tracks, and every time a train that belonged on the line hove into sight, we were bumped onto a sidetrack.

A journey which should have taken us an hour lasted until some unknown hour far into the night—and gave us a thrill.

* * *

Suddenly something happened which curiously enough, made me think first of all of a story popular in South Africa about an American traveler in that country. I read the other day about a man who was sinking in deep water for the last time and whose final conscious thought, he related, was [illegible] they would be having that night for supper at home. The aforesaid American, riding on a rickety Boer train, was perpetually grumbling about the roughness of the journey, without eliciting any sympathy from the only other passenger in the "compartment," a typical Dutchman.

Suddenly a smile came over the American's face, he leaned back and remarked with a sigh of satisfaction

"Ah, now we are going smoothly."

"Ugh," growled the Boer, "we have left the track."

* * *

Last night our car without warning began to do an Irish jig. It made us all join the dance, too.

Bump, jump, crash, crunch!

"Now we're off the track," I said to myself, as I thought of the South African incident. And, of course, we were.

* * *

Then began an exhibition of bungling which tried one's patience. Time after time a wrecking crew who happened to be nearby got the wheels back on the track. But time after time the same pair of wheels went off the track at exactly the same spot.

This performance kept up for several hours.

Then it was suggested that the "frog" used to put the wheels on the track, be used to keep them on the track at this fatal spot. The suggestion was acted on—and the danger point was passed.

* * *

Meanwhile, during all this interminable delay and fussing and bungling, not a single official, I was informed, had been got into touch with.

"The superintendent is out and nobody knows where to find him," was the [illegible] repeated [illegible] elicited. Could not his assistant or some other man of authority be telephoned to for instructions to move as much of the train as was not affected?

No; the man to give orders was the superintendent, nobody else.

* * *

That occurred at a spot named Kaufman, in Texas. I'm clicking this off on my portable during the two-hour delay in Arkansas.

The Memphis Chamber of Commerce has arranged a special midday function to extend characteristic Southern hospitality. It is now far past luncheon time, but have not yet passed Little Rock, and will feel fortunate if Memphis appears in sight before bedtime.

Subscriptions for the $150,000,000 Japanese loan, offered last Friday by a country-wide syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., approximated $250,000,000, an oversubscription of about $100,000,000, it was announced today. Allotments are being made on a 60 per cent. basis.

Japanese Loan Allotments Made on 60 P. C. Basis

Bond prices displayed an irregular trend, with mixed movements in the foreign government and railroad issues and continued heaviness in the sugar group.

Liberty 3½s declined to a new low level for the year at 99, but buying of the other issues held prices steady.

With the $150,000,000 Japanese loan oversubscribed approximately $100,000,000, allotments were being made on a 60 per cent. basis.

Trading interest in the new bonds lagged, however, and transactions were recorded around the offering price, while the Japanese 4s lost ground.

Liens of public utility companies attracted the greatest demand and Atlantic Fruit 7s, Cerro de Pasco 8s also were active, with 1 and 2-point gains.

Coppers Sell Higher in Boston Exchange Trading

Coppers sold higher in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange. Calumet & Arizona, Mohawk and St. Mary's Mineral Lands were all up a point or better. Edison gained a point.

Issues slightly higher were Isle Royale, New Cornelia, U. S. Smelting, Warren Bros. and Elevated.

Calumet & Hecla, Connor Stores, Eastern S. S., New England Telephone, United Shoe and New Haven were shaded.

Wall St. Gossip

H. E. BYRAM, president of St. Paul, believes worst stage of financial troubles in northwestern prairie States has passed.

NORTHERN Pacific's January traffic and earnings were satisfactory, says President Donnelly.

TRUMBULL'S Steel Co.'s hot mill production in January totaled 38,805 tons, a new record.

TO DATE it is probably safe to say that business has been more active than good judges expected it thirty days ago to be.

"CHICKIE"

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

THE STORY OF "CHICKIE" TO DATE

"Chickie" Bryce is the only child in the family. Her sister having died when she was quite young, the parents lavished all their affection on "Chickie." As the story opens, "Chickie" is attending business college and Arthur Soniag, one of her classmates, takes her to a dance "Chickie's" father is afraid of the pitfalls ahead for his daughter, but his fears are soothed by the girl and her mother. "Chickie" is thrilled to the core by the dance, and when Arthur kisses her as he bids her goodnight she believes that she has met "her hero." Mary Blake and "Chickie" blandly discuss love and marriage; Mary says it's too sordid for her, but "Chickie" thinks it will be all kisses and "walking on the mountain tops with her lover by her side." However, "Chickie" is disillusioned about a year later, when Arthur passes her on the street and fails to notice her. At eighteen, "Chickie" secured a position in a broker's office. There she met Janina, a girl worldly wise and one who told the other girls how to "handle" the men. "Chickie" went out with several men, but was not impressed by them. Mary Blake's sister, Lucy, married, and with four children, is an object of her sympathy. Jimmie Blake, after discussing his family, declares his love for "Chickie." A year after her wedding Mary returned to Chicago and not long after a son was born. Chickie is startled by Jimmie's announcement that he is going to Honolulu. Jimmie does not go immediately and in the meantime Chickie sees a peculiarly attractive young man in the office across from hers. A few days later Janina invites her to go on a party with Jake Munson and some of her friends. Jake is the envy of all the girls in Chickie's set.

FEVERISHLY her thoughts ran back to Janina. She stood in the middle of the street, saying almost aloud, "Why did she ask me?"

Chickie knew that Janina was in love with Jake Munson—pitifully in love with him.

Why should she ask another to the party? She remembered the d[illegible] Jake had stopped her for a ch[illegible] remembered the kind rich look in his eyes . . .

Why not! Why shouldn't she go?

By the time she met Mary her eyes were glowing. Mary looked at her with a little touch of envy: "Heavens, Chickie, you get thinner every day. Look at me! Sometimes I could cry . . ."

"But you have [illegible] Edward!"

"Yes—well, but I can [illegible] see myself in the mirror [illegible] today—honestly [illegible] me. I have to hurry. I have to get shoes and a bonnet and a little sacque . . . ."

Confidants

She went [illegible] Chickie only half [illegible] She kept thinking to herself, "I [illegible] right to go. And [illegible]" suddenly she turned to Mary.

"Do you remember [illegible] Jake Munson?"

"Who—that big handsome fellow?"

"Yes—I'm going out with him tonight——"

Mary's fingers dug into hers—they way they did when she got all [illegible] She stared at Chickie [illegible] lously [illegible] "How does this happen?"

Chickie told her swiftly. "Do you think I should go, Mary?"

"Well—well—why shouldn't you? I don't see why not. Maybe he's in love with you [illegible] heavens! Imagine that!"

"Don't be an idiot, Mary—like all the married people making matches. I don't know—I'm kind of nervous . . . ."

"It can't hurt you to go. You're nobody's fool, are you? Oh, Chickie—you might as well take a few pleasures while you can. You'll be settling down. It's in the cards for you."

Mary smiled wistfully! "It wouldn't surprise me a bit if that man marries you within a month. He's old, isn't he—you're just the type a man like that falls for. Chickie, don't get married till I can pour myself into a slim gown . . . wouldn't we have the fun——"

It was so delicious to hear Mary talk aimlessly like this. Chickie said with a gulp "Oh—you look at things so easily ——"

"You know why, Chickie. Because there's really nothing to fear from Life. That's one thing I've found out. Nothing that you need fear——"

Mary's opinion was like a sanction. Of course, she should go—nothing for her to fear—

Yet she kept thinking of Janina's words: "Don't be a fool all your life. Leave the ice in the refrigerator" She tossed her head, brushing aside the vague insinuations. They flew back into her mind, twittering there, restless, alert. She felt her breath heated; her heart swelled out—half bursting.

As she got off the car, Jimmy met her. He walked to the door, stood awkwardly as though he had something vital that he must say, yet remained silent, his eyes reaching out to her like gestures pleading.

She laughed uneasily: "Jimmy, old [illegible] why so mournful?"

"Say—say, Chickie, aren't we ever going out together again?"

"Well, I like that! Is this a throw down cold, Jimmy, old love?"

"Then how about tonight? Why don't you come out with me tonight?"

At Wrong Time

"O[illegible] always ask me the wrong time. I can't tonight. Tomorrow or Monday, any other night—" She wouldn't meet the hurt, eager look of him.

She went into the house half ready to cry. She would ring up that Janina—break her old date—

She paused. She went into her room and stealthily took out the new maroon crepe dress—took out tenderly a long string of crystal beads.

She was excited again. She would go. She would look beautiful—more radiant than any one ever dreamed.

From across the small table Jonathan watched her. It made little shivers of anxiety run into her throat. He might begin to ask questions. Where was she going? Who was taking her?

In the kitchen she heard the clink of glasses. Jennie was bringing in the pudding. Oh, Jennie was so slow tonight. Chickie glanced at her wrist watch.

Jonathan saw that. He reached over and took her hand, staring at the nails that shone like little pink mirrors.

Chickie felt his kind eyes. She knew that they were pleading. She wouldn't look at them. She ran her fingers back and forth over his great hard palm.

He said softly: "Not going out again tonight, Chickie?"

She felt suddenly as though she would like to cover her face with his big hands and cry. But she tossed her head. "Again? Why, Jonathan, what do you mean? You want your own blessed darling to be a hermit?"

With a little nervous laugh she jumped up and ran from the room.

Standing at the foot of the bed she saw through a haze the new dress. A [illegible] passed over her, expectant, uneasy, like a pulse of guilt.

Suddenly she tossed her head with an impatient "What is the matter with me!" She began hurriedly to dress.

Her face in the mirror gave her a little stab of frightened joy. The dark maroon silk threw a soft flush over her beautiful white skin and that drape to one side made her look tall and very slender. Her heart swelled with pride.

Then, with a catch in her throat she remembered Janina's warning. Even to her milky throat [illegible] scarlet. She turned hastily from the mirror. Jennie's ample [illegible] was framed in the door. "Oh, nearly ready, dear?"

She came over all rosy with pride and gave little loving touches [illegible] about the skirt. "There now," she whispered. "Well, I think it's just perfect."

In a breathless hurry, Chickie [illegible] stood before her father. He took her hand, patting it in an [illegible] way. "I wish you'd stay at home once in a while, Chickie."

[illegible] eyes. "Why ever since last year; ever since Mary went and got married I've just about turned yellow like the wall from staying in so much."

Jonathan had no chuckle in him. He said heavily: "I haven't noticed it, Chickie."

She ran her fingers nervously over his hair, pinching his mustache the way he loved so. "It's only Summer once, cutie love!"

[illegible] her soft [illegible] about him, [illegible] breath from his own springtime. Jonathan persisted: "Listen, Chickie, get home by 12. That's late enough."

Ask your friends who have these unsightly enlarged pores what powders they use. You will find they have been using imported French powders marked "Poudre de Riz," which in French means Powder of Rice. HEROINES OF HISTORY

By Mark Sullivan

The Woman Who May Be the First American Saint

ONE of the most beloved heroines of America's history—though her memory has left only a calm and beautiful impress with nothing of spectacular quality on the nation's history—is perhaps to become the first native saint of the United States.

In the Vatican at Rome an illustrious papal commission is investigating the [illegible] to sainthood of Mother Elizabeth Anne Seton, the brilliant, [illegible] and thoroughly American woman who founded the branch in this country of the Sisters of Charity.

It was in 1774 that a baby daughter came to the home of the distinguished Dr. Richard Bayley, first professor of anatomy at Columbia College—now Columbia University—in New York city.

The baby grew to lovely girl and young womanhood. By birth an aristocrat, she moved in the highest social circles of her time. Yet she was a most devoted member of the Anglican church and more than all her jewels she loved a plain silver crucifix.

When she was twenty she was married in St. Paul's Church to William Magee Seton and had several children. Then, because of her husband's illness, she went for a long stay, with her family, in Italy. Friends there converted her to the Roman Catholic faith.

Many sorrows awaited Elizabeth Anne Seton upon her return to America, one of the greatest being the death of her husband.

Immediately afterward she founded a Catholic girls' school in Emmitsburg, Md., near Baltimore. Though not at that time a nun, she wore a religious costume like that of the sisters of St. Vincent de Paul.

A few years later Mrs. Seton sent her daughters to France to learn and bring back with them the rules of the St. Vincent de Paul order so that she might found a branch of it here. Napoleon refused to permit them to enter the country. But their indomitable mother finally managed to establish the branch at her school in Emmitsburg, and much against her will she was made Mother Superior.

Besides being a brilliant executive Mother Seton was described by writers of the time as a "soul afire with the love of God."

The society now numbers more than six thousand members.

If Mother Seton is declared worthy of being a saint two gorgeous and beautiful ceremonies will take place in Rome separated, perhaps, by several years.

The first is the beatification in St. Peter's. After some time has passed the Pope and cardinals will officiate at the canonization ceremonies. For this St. Peter's will be illumined and hung with rich tapestry upon which the arms of the Pope and the United States will be embroidered in gold and silver.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

(1) When should the candles of a birthday cake be lighted? (2) Is it proper [illegible] serve the birthday cake? (3) When a [illegible] the lady to [illegible] what she wishes or should she give [illegible] direct to the waiter? (4) When [illegible] house is it proper for the gentleman to pour the tea? PEGGY.

THE candles should be lighted [illegible] the kitchen or the serving pantry just before the cake is brought into the dining room. (2) Yes, this is the best part of the fun of the birthday party. The one whose birthday it is should cut the cake and serve it. (3) She should tell her preference to the gentleman with whom she is dining since he is the host. He "relays" the order to the waiter. (4) It is in most cases [illegible] for a gentleman to serve when he and a lady are dining together in a restaurant, but in the case of serving tea I think that it seems more consistent and graceful for the lady to serve it.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

Radio Queries

Would an antenna running at right angles to electric light wires hinder the effectiveness of it?
D. D. S.

I don't believe it will make much difference as long as it was not too close or running in the same direction as the light lines.

Will it make any difference if I connect Neg. A Battery wire to Pos. post on socket and the Pos. A Battery to the Neg. post?
E. F. H.

No, you can choose either binding post you wish for Pos. or Neg. I generally use, whichever one happens to be most convenient.

Will it make any difference if I start my antenna post on the right of panel instead of left? J. H. C.

No, using the method you suggest, you will simply have to reverse the whole method of wiring, starting from the right and working to the left. Your audio tubes will then be on the left instead of right.

Why won't two pairs of phones work well together, even though they work separately O. K.
M. J. MacLEAN.

They are probably not of nearly equal resistance.

Last night (Feb. 12), while listening on KDKA, I moved the dial a fraction of an inch and heard a very good musical program from what sounded like IXK. If there is such a station, could you tell me where it is located? H. G. M.

This is the call of the Boston College station. The operator there states that they were "on the air" at the time you mention.

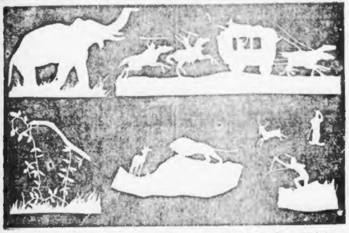
For Dissatisfied Boys--and Some Other People

Many Think They Don't Have "Enough Fun"

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

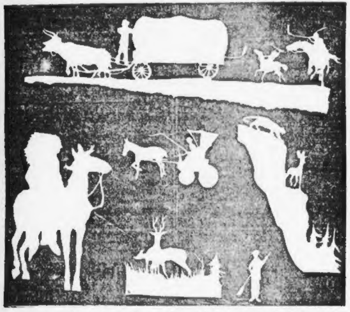


The pictures in this article are made by a boy thirteen years old. He cuts them out of paper.

Notice the skill with which the work is done, the stagecoach, Indians, crouching lion, all the rest of it.

Then in case you are dissatisfied with your lot, or with "the amount of fun" you have, remember that the small boy, "Joe Jones," who makes these pictures, lies on his back, his neck, body and legs, everything but his skillful hands, strapped to a board to prevent his moving.

Thus he has lain for a very long time in the Children's Department of the Scottish Rite Hospital, near Atlanta, Georgia.



As he lies, his entire body tightly strapped down, and only his hands free, heavy weights are attached by pulleys to his legs to draw out his spine. It is painful, causing sometimes excruciating agony.

But this little boy, with white face, feeble body, but mighty courage, works on at his pictures, thankful that he can have nice white paper and a scissors with which to work.

This sort of thing puts to shame millions of us, old and young, that have health, freedom, everything in the world that this plucky boy lacks.

The Ku Klux in Maine

As Elsewhere It Is on the Wrong Track

Governor Baxter of Maine, who is usually right on public questions and always courageous and disinterested, addressed the Lincoln Club at Portland at its annual banquet. In his remarks he dealt with the Ku Klux Klan in the State of Maine.

He said he did not question the good intentions of the klan and that he agreed with the klan in one of its chief issues, namely, a Constitutional Amendment prohibiting the use of public moneys for sectarian schools.

But he pointed out two faults in the klan's program. One was that it agitated the question of a Constitutional Amendment prohibiting sectarian appropriations as if it were a drive against the Catholic church when, as a matter of fact, the amendment would hit both Catholic and Protestant alike, and when, moreover, it would affect more Protestant schools with larger attendance than Catholic schools. His other criticism of the klan was its secrecy. This is the most important criticism of all. There is nothing in a democracy so dangerous as secrecy. Terrorism is a weapon of those forms of government which represent the very antithesis of democracy. Masks and robes and the paraphernalia of disguise and terror are utterly foreign to and destructive of democratic government.

We know a great deal of the activities of the klan have been in the direction of aiding the civil authorities to enforce the law where the situation is beyond the control of the civil authorities or where the civil authorities are failing to perform their duty. But the remedy in every such case is worse than the disease. It is a great deal better to let the law be vindicated however tardily by the regular processes of democratic government than to have it depend upon the irregular, irresponsible, terroristic aids of klansmen. These methods cannot but provoke anarchy.

The denial to the klan by city authorities of a right to a hall in Boston we believe is violative of one of the fundamental rights of our citizens, but it only illustrates how the klan methods provoke like methods.

If the klansmen and all who get impatient with the slow process and fallibilities of our democratic institutions would take a leaf from the experience and precepts of the Socialist and Labor Prime Minister of Great Britain, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, they would acquire knowledge and learn the wisdom of making haste slowly. They would learn from the experience of Mr. MacDonald and the British Labor party, now in control of the huge British Empire, that the processes of a modern representative democracy are adequate for the expression of rights and interests of any class in the community when that class has become a determined majority, and that is all any form of government can do or ought to do.

THE JOY OF LOVE LIES IN THE GIVING NOT THE GETTING.

THEY teach us so wrongly about Love. We think it is going to come as a joyful gift. But we learn slowly and sadly that the joy in love comes from loving, and not from being loved. Sometimes we never learn this. Then we feel we have been sold and we sneer at a Scheme of Things which could make such a fool of a trusting heart. But we have not been fooled. We have only looked for joy in the wrong place.

Have you ever thought of the love of mothers, and wondered how it endured in the face of ingratitude and indifference? The mother's love is the deepest and fiercest of all love. It involves the greatest actual service. Yet during its years of hardest service it receives the least response. A normal child is an indifferent child where love is concerned. He loves enthusiastically in quick, eager spurts; then blissfully forgets the whole matter. He constantly hurts and irritates that mother who adores him. Yet any true mother knows the secret of the joy she finds in her love. She knows that that joy lies in the love she GIVES, not in the love she GETS. Her hands may grow furrowed in thankless service, her dreams may be faded in a rain of tears, but a flame glows forever on the altar in her heart. That is the love of mothers.

And the love of a mother for her child is one with the love of a true wife for her husband. He is her greater child. Often he will affront and neglect her. Inevitably he will fail in keeping those small spiritual trysts upon which women pin their hopes. But the love she gives him is her great reward. Often and often she will forget all other considerations—her own welfare, and even the welfare of her children—in the joy of that service.

That is the inner truth about love. That is why most of our romantic twaddle is false and misleading. Given love will never completely satisfy, no matter how rich or full it may be. Do not go out into life expecting that it will. The more you bank on love to make you happy, the more you will be disappointed. Every small neglect will be a poisoned arrow in your heart, for it will seem the breaking of a fundamental trust. But if you look for joy in the GIVING of love rather than in the GETTING of love you will be safe. For then the perfecting of your hope lies within your own hands. And you will see the failures of your loved one in the proper light—not as the breaking of a trust, but as little human weaknesses which make that loved one all the more in need of your understanding service.

Yes, that is the inner truth about love. But you will not believe it until you have walked a long way.

All Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a little girl thirteen and have heart trouble, but go to school every day. I am not really sick. Papa is in the hospital and mama has been sick and can hardly get around the house. Her feet and ankles are terribly swollen. We all need clothing. I need dresses, a coat and shoes, and my two sisters need skirts and waists, or dresses. Mama needs dresses and underwear, and shoes also. Our sizes are 13, 16 and 18, and 44 or 46 for mother. Shoes, 1, 4 and 5½, and mother takes 7 large ankles. BETH.

Mixed Tan Suit

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a mixed tan homespun suit, size 37, that is in very good condition. If you know of any young man that needs a suit I would be glad to send it.

F. W. C.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of R. P. F. R., who is in need of a suit that size, but can't get together enough to buy one.

Asks for Mother

Editor Helping Hand:

We are pretty badly off. Mother and I are alone. Mother got hurt a year ago and her leg hasn't been any good since. So I work hard trying to do all I can, but can't do much, just being fifteen. I am large and could pass for seventeen or eighteen. I am not asking for all we need, just the worst. We live in the basement and haven't any carpets on the floor. At night I cover up with old clothing. But most of all I wish someone would please give mother a pair of rubbers or overshoes and a coat; shoe size 6½, and coat size 42. She said if she had those things she might be able to find something to do. And has some man an overcoat he doesn't want? I'd be thankful. ROBERT.

For Girl of Four

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a coat, several dresses, underclothes and stockings to fit a girl four years old. Also some underwear, a suit and a pair of boots and rubbers that would fit a boy about two years. If you will kindly send me an address I will send them parcel post.

MRS. M. E.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. C. D. W., who has children that age.

Very Grateful

Editor Helping Hand:

I am extremely grateful for your kindness in sending me Mrs. J. H. J.'s address. She sent me a beautiful box of clothing for my children besides things for myself. Wishing you both success and prosperity through life.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON TAXES--ONE END OR THE OTHER

By Dr. Frank Crane

THERE is a perfectly simple principle by which anyone can understand the tax question.

As taxation is at present carried out, it is safe to say that, to ninety-nine people out of a hundred, it is a hopeless muddle.

If the principle indicated below were acted upon everybody could understand it perfectly. That principle is:

Levy taxes at one end or the other.

That means, levy taxes at the point of production or the point of consumption.

If governments should do this there would be the minimum amount of tax dodging and besides this a thousand other evils would be cured.

The best method of taxation, the one that has the most reason and common sense behind it, is what is known as Single Tax. I do not think, however, that it would be practical to attain Single Tax at present, as our property system is so complicated and the mass of prejudice against this form of tax is at present so great. No matter how sensible and logical a system is we have to take into account the material we have to work with, which is the public mind. And just now the public mind is both incapable and unwilling to consider the arguments of Single Tax.

But while the Single Tax, which is taxation at the point of production, is impractical there is a form of taxation at the other end, or the point of consumption, which is entirely feasible. I mean the Sales Tax.

The Sales Tax would levy the entire tax upon the ultimate consumer.

For instance, if a man bought an overcoat for fifty dollars he would be charged fifty dollars and fifty cents for it, let us say. Or perhaps fifty-three dollars. This amount of fifty cents or three dollars would cover all the taxes that should be levied on that overcoat, and the material and work that went to produce it from the beginning.

Under the present system the government, which should assist business, really impedes, obstructs and annoys business. Instead of helping the prosperity of the country it is injuring it.

Under the present system of taxation the government wages a constant warfare upon Thrift. Why should any man strive to develop his business, serve the people better, or increase his capital when the government has a horde of paid officials whose business it is to watch him, examine his books and question his every transaction as if he were a crook?

Our present Income Tax, and other pestiferous forms of taxation, penalize success. They have their origin in the Bolshevistic notion that whoever achieves riches is some kind of a criminal. But every healthy American, with a few exceptions, is endeavoring to achieve riches. Hence the implication is that every American is a criminal; that business is necessarily wicked, and that no one can get on in the world without becoming an enemy of the people.

An army of some 5,400 government employes is constantly occupied in going over the tax returns of the business men of the country to see if they cannot find something crooked in them.

As a matter of fact most business men, besides being at great pains to make out their Income Tax statement in the first place, are at great expense employing tax experts in the second place to argue the case out with government officials anywhere from one to five years after they have sent in their returns.

The whole business is contrary to the genius of the American people.

The simple expedient of the Sales Tax would wipe out the whole army of mischief makers, would unleash the energies of business and would raise more money for the government.

Let the tax be at one end or the other, either at the point of consumption or the point of production.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON INTELLIGENCE TESTS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

I HAVE received a pictorial specimen page, used to advertise a book, whose thesis is that the intelligence of the American people is in danger of going downward, if not already declining, because our immigration includes a smaller and smaller proportion of "the intellectually superior races."

The logic by which such a conclusion is reached may be sound, but sound logic, like sound mathematics, is wasted if it does not start from unquestionable facts. And the facts must not only be unquestionable, but they must suit the case and be broad enough to cover the ground.

Now the alleged facts on which the pessimistic forecast above mentioned is based are derived from the "army mental tests," that were invented when we went into the great war and that some persons seem to regard as sure touchstones for the detection of human ability.

Presumably the specimen page was selected as a particularly convincing example of the excellence of this way of measuring the intelligence of a race or a nation, and getting a line on people's ability to make good in the battles of life. It may be taken then, as typical of the methods of modern "practical psychology."

Accompanying are two of the "tests," which go under the head of "picture completion." What the subject of the test has to do is to discover what it is missing in each picture. The quicker he supplies the thing lacking the higher mark he will get. If he fails to find it he may be sent down to the infant class!

Other tests show a woman without a nose, a baby without a spoon, a rabbit with only one ear, a violin without strings, a knife without a rivet, a triggerless pistol, a lady sitting before her dressing mirror with no powder-puff, and a jack of diamonds who lacks a lozenge and a sword-handle.

This is trivial. It is far less informing as a test of quickness of observation than the old social game of walking through a room, casting a glance at a table, and then telling what the table contained and how the things were arranged.

The laboriously tabulated results of this and other similarly conceived test examinations have to be theoretically interpreted and discussed. It is an example of going a long way around when there is a shorter and an already well-known way, to the same goal. "Races," said Wendell Phillips, before the days of mechanical, or "laboratory," methods in psychology, "races love to be judged in two ways, by the great men they produce and by the average intelligence of the mass."
